WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., 8 a. m., March 2, '92.

The local forecast for to-day is continued cold and fair during the day, warmer at night. For Thursday, cloudy and warmer.

The high area reported yesterday over the upper lakes is now central in the St. Lawrence valley. Heavy easterly gales may be expected in the Canadian maritime provinces to-day as a result. The cold wave which follows the "high" is retreating and moderating. The only zero temperatures this morning are reported from Parry Sound and Rockliff, about 400 miles north of Toledo. The "low reported in Montana has not developed sufficiently to gain impetus.

Cloudy weather prevails throughout the country excepting the Southern states. The temperature has risen to an average of 30 degrees over the entire country excepting Gulf and lake regions. The highest temperature reported was 54 at Galveston. The lowest was 2 degrees above at Alpena. The highest in Toledo yesterday was 30 degrees. The lowest this morning was 17 degrees. The snow fall yesterday amounted to only a trace.

Kept up for years—the offer that's made by the proprietors of Doctor Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It's addressed to you, if you have Catarrh. It's a reward of $500, if they can't cure you, no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing—an offer that's made in good faith by responsible men.

Think what it means! Absolute confidence in their Remedy, or they couldn't afford to take the risk. A long record of perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases—or they couldn't have faith in it. It means no more catarrh—or $500. If you fail to be cured, you won't fail to be paid.

But perhaps you won't believe it. Then there's another reason for trying it. Show that you can't be cured, and you'll get $500. It's a plain business offer. The makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay you that amount if they can't cure you. They know that they can—you think that they can't. If they're wrong, you get the cash. If you're wrong, you're rid of catarrh.

CHAPIN CUTLERY COMPANY.

New Organization Formed and Perfected.

Plans for the New Building to be Erected on Monroe Street in Process of Completion.

Manager Chapin of the Seamless Knifehandle Cutlery company, has about perfected arrangements for a new company and a new factory.

L. S. Baumgardner is one of the heaviest stockholders in the new company, and a site for the proposed new factory has been secured by Mr. Baumgardner on Monroe street, across the way from the location of the burned Cot and Wringer works.

Mr. Geo. H. Ketcham holds the majority of the stock in the present company now located in Glassboro, but things have not been just running right for some time, hence the new departure.

Mr. Chapin has had the plans for the new building on Monroe street prepared, and they will be accepted by the directors in a day or two.

TO THE FAR WEST

The Eye is Looking for a Candidate.

A Review of the Situation Up to Date

Shows That Neither Cleveland Nor Hill

Are to be Considered Presidential Probabilities.

Boies, of Iowa, and Russell, of Massachusetts, is a Ticket Picked Out by Politicians of Good Judgment.

New York, March 2.—The Herald this morning presents a timely and highly interesting table showing what are at the present moment the presidential preferences of the democracy in the various states.

The table has been carefully and accurately prepared on the supposition that 900 delegates will be admitted to the Chicago convention under the new apportionment. It is supported by interviews with well posted democrats from each one of the states and territories on whose judgment the expressed probability as to how the respective delegations will vote are based.

The table shows that Mr. Hill leads Mr. Cleveland but very little at the present time and that the mass of the democracy is looking to the west for a man to lead them to victory. The figures are:

Hill	285
Cleveland	265
A western man	350

An analysis of the table reveals that Mr. Cleveland seems to be the choice of 15 states. They are California, Connecticut, Delaware, Main, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin. Twelve of these states are republican and only three are democratic.

Senator Hill is the choice of 10 states. They are Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Maryland, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Texas. Seven are democratic and three republican. This shows unmistakably that in the states where the democratic sentiment predominates, Hill is stronger than Cleveland.

But the real choice of the democracy is shown in 16 states. They want a western man and are: Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Tennessee and Wyoming. Eight are democratic and eight republican. Their 350 delegates standing solid for a western man and representing over one-third of the convention against the other two-thirds hopelessly divided, will probably have a great effect in shaping the convention's actions.

It will be notice that three states have been passed over. They are Alabama, Louisiana and Oregon. Their delegations are, it is said, likely to be divided between Hill and Cleveland.

With the sentiment so strong in favor of a western candidate, the possibilities in that direction are worthy of note. It is significant that the west has so far presented four candidates, Gov. Boies, of Iowa; Gen. Palmer, of Illinois; Gov. Gray, of Indiana, and Don Dickinson, of Michigan. The strongest of these are Boies and Palmer, and of the two Boies seems to have the lead.

This is chiefly due to his free silver affiliations.

Palmer, on the other hand, has openly declared against the free coinage of silver, and the effect of this will be to greatly neutralize his chances. A favorite ticket in the west would seem to be Boies, of Iowa, and Russell, of Massachusetts.

HENRY COUNTY GOSSIP.

Sensational Suit for Divorce on Trial.

Funeral of Postmaster Jones—Undue Haste by Republicans to Secure His Commission.

Napoleon, March 2.—(Special)—The petition of Mrs. Henry Boessling, asking for divorce and alimony, was heard in common pleas court yesterday. It was the sensational case of this term and, as usual in such cases, drew a large crowd.

The defendant is a well-known farmer of Napoleon township, well up in the sixties, and worth between $50,000 and $60,000.

From the evidence introduced the acme of domestic infelicity had been reached after living together over a quarter of a century.

The Dead Postmaster.

Many were the friends who turned out to witness the funeral of Postmaster Jones yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was in charge of the Choate Post G. A. R., of which the deceased was a prominent member.

The Vacant Office.

Although Postmaster Jones was buried but yesterday it is mortifying to notice the undue haste being used by the republicans in striving to fill the vacancy.

Especially is this disgusting procedure prominent in the case of George Russell. Notwithstanding that he has lived in Napoleon but a few years, and is not a soldier. His undue haste has cost him many supporters.

The movement to give the vacancy to the widow is gaining ground. The republicans certainly cannot refuse to make her a present of her husband's commission which expires in June, 1894, the deceased having been in office only a little over a year and a half. It consumed the major portion of his salary for this time in fixtures, hence it may be said that he has received practically nothing.

All the candidates seem to have signified a willinguess to withdraw in favor of the widow save Russell.

THE SAYWARD CASE.

London, March 2.—Notwithstanding the attempts of the newspapers to belittle the Sayward decision, it has caused profound disappointment in British official circles, and also among all who are interested in the Bering sea fur seal traffic. The general opinion is that it greatly strengthens the position of the United States and weakens that of Great Britain before the world.

TO LICENSE SALOONS.

Liable to Bring About Bloodshed in Creede, Col.

Denver, Col., March 2.—Great excitement was created in the saloons at Creede this morning by the announcement that the commissioners of Rio Grande, Saguich and Hinsdale counties had met and agreed that the saloons of Creede should pay licenses to Hinsdale, the money to be divided equally after the county question is settled.

George Gardner, under-sheriff of Hinsdale county, is at Creede and has given saloon-keepers until to-morrow to deposit money for licenses. If they refuse they will be arrested. Trouble is sure to follow if the order is enforced.

SUIT FOR SLANDER.

Norwalk, O., March 2.—(Special)—Jennie Harland, a young and good-looking school teacher of Hartland township, brought suit against Levi Thomas, a prominent farmer of Hartland, for slander. The suit was just tried in the common pleas court, and the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, fixing the damage at $600. Defendant will appeal the case.

RUMOR DENIED.

St. Louis, March 2.—The rumored consolidation of Washington university of this city and the State University of Columbia, Mo., was denied to-day by Chancellor Chaplin of Washington university.

HANGED AT NEWGATE.

London, March 2.—Muir, the murderer of Mrs. Sullivan, was hanged in Newgate prison this morning.

SARAH ON A TEAR.

She Creates a Sensation on the Coast.

Hotels Barred Against Her—Her Terrible Temper Once More Exhibited.

San Francisco, March 2.—Sarah Althea Terry broke out again Monday night, and created a scene in the Rush house, where she had engaged a room.

Sunday night she left her stopping place and said she was going to take rooms on Stockton street. Sunday she met young Porter Ashe, and he gave her money for her immediate wants.

She then engaged a room at the Rush house, but when the proprietor discovered who he had under his roof he played a trick on Sarah and claimed the room was aready engaged.

She refused to budge, but when a strapping miner went up to the room, entered, made himself at home, lit a cigar and took off his coat, Sarah walked out, vowing vengeance on Proprietor Seymour.

In the hall she ran across Seymour, told him what she thought of him and kicked him in the shins.

She is very restless and is apt to fly into a rage at the slightest opposition to her wishes. Porter Ashe has promised to supply her with what money she needs, but she requires a guardian to look after her personal safety.

WAS A KNOCK-OUT BLOW

The Standard Hit Hard by the Ohio Court.

The Trust Agreement Must Fall to the Ground.

The Decision in the Buckeye State Was Following the Line of the Empire State in That of the Sugar Trust.

New York, March 2.—S. T. C. Dodd, solicitor for the Standard Oil trust, said this morning that the Columbus decision was an important one, as being the first step toward breaking up the arrangement by which the stocks of the several Standard oil companies in different states and in foreign countries were bound together in the trust agreement.

"This arrangement was a matter of business convenience. The decision, if followed in other states would simply terminate this convenient arrangement. The stocks of the various companies would of course still be owned and controlled as at present.

"The decision had followed essentially the decision in this state against the sugar trust. It will be possible to abrogate the trust agreement and still carry on the business of the Standard oil companies as it is now conducted."

He was asked if it would not be possible to organize a corporation under the laws of New Jersey which might exercise the functions of the trust. He said that he did not think the Standard companies could be advantageously merged into one large corporation.

GROWS STRONGER EACH DAY

Emperor William Becoming Less Popular.

His Proposed Prosecution of the Papers Commenting on His Speech May Cause Trouble.

Berlin, March 2.—It is announced that the Cologne Gazette is to be prosecuted on the ground that it published recently an article commenting in a disloyal manner upon Emperor William's Brandenburg speech.

This prosecution, should it be pushed, will attract the widest attention throughout Germany, and, indeed, throughout the world.

There are people, already, who openly condemn the emperor's determination to take this course, and who predict that he will not come out of the affair with flying colors.

Others go further still and claim that this prosecution will tend to increase the feeling which is slowly but surely arising against the emperor and that it may be looked upon as another of the bad breaks he has recently made.

FELL ELEVEN STORIES,

And Lives, to the Surprise of Everybody.

A Carpenter in Chicago Who Came Out of a Terrible Accident Alive.

Chicago, March 2.—Fred Bergan, a young carpenter employed on the new Ashland block, corner Randolph and Clark streets, fell from the eleventh story to the ground floor yesterday and was not killed, nor even made senseless.

His left leg was broken in two places above the knee and three of the ribs on the left side were fractured and he received minor injuries.

It is supposed that he struck some of the elevator wires on the journey downward, breaking the momentum.

He was perfectly conscious when found and was quite cheerful while his injuries were being attended to and will recover in all probability.

BOUND FOR THE WEST.

Jay Gould So Far Recovered as to Start on His Trip.

St. Louis, Mo., March 2.—Attached to the Pennsylvania line express which arrived here last evening, was the private car of Jay Gould, which left New York Monday morning with Gould and his party en route for the southwest. Immediately upon arrival here a special was made up and the party left over the Iron Mountain for Texas. General Manager S. H. H. Clark's car was attached to the special.

During the short stay here neither Mr. Gould nor any of his party was visible to either reporters or officials of the Gould system. Mr. Munn refused also to be seen. From this belief is strengthened that Mr. Gould's physical condition is precarious.

DON'T WANT THE FLAGS.

Mexico's Dignity Would Be Outraged by Their Return.

City of Mexico, March 2.—The Catholic organ of Mexico, El Tiempo, has opened a register for the purpose of inscribing the names of all Mexicans who are opposed to accepting the return of the flags tendered by the United States. El Tiempo has been publishing a series of virulent articles on the subject and claims the dignity of the nation is outraged by the offer.

ABDUCTED BY ROBBERS.

Little Rock, Ark., March 2.—Two men who pretended to be officers, abducted Stephen Van Clew, aged 70, from his house near Bear Hill yesterday. They were captured by Van Clew's wife and son, after they had robbed and murdered the old man and flung his body in a gully.

One of the murderers was shot while attempting to escape, and the other was turned over to the authorities.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Carthagena, Columbia, Feb. 25.—On Sunday last Senor Pedro E. Montalsolo committed suicide, dashing himself from the choir gallery of the San Juan de Dios church to the central aisle. Montalsolo was a young Italian sculptor of great merit, and has, during his residence in this republic, executed many handsome works of art.

GAVE THEM A SCARE.

New York, March 2.—At 9 o'clock this morning an alarm of fire was sent out from the general postoffice on Park Row which caused considerable excitement.

An investigation showed that the cause of the smoke was the burning of a quantity of old boxes in the new boilers of the building.

WALTZED TO THE GRAVE.

San Salvador, Feb. 25.—The mortality returns show an increase from day to day. Not a day passes but that one hears the sounds of music, with which it is the custom here to accompany the dead to its last resting place, to the pace of a polka or a lively waltz.

A REGULAR DEATH TRAP

Where the Big Steamer Elder Went Down.

A Low Ebb Tide To-Day Revealed the Ribs of Six Wrecks as the Result of Improper Lights.

London, March 2.—The last 15 mail bags from the wrecked steamer Elder, of the North German Lloyd company, have been forwarded here from Atherfield, Isle of Wight, where the steamer is ashore.

The attempt to float the Elder has been postponed owing to the difficulty experienced in reaching the cargo remaining in her hold, where only a few men are able to work at a time, even under the most favorable circumstances. In consequence, many of the hands recently employed about the wreck have been discharged.

An abnormally low ebb tide to-day, laid bare the ribs of six wrecks in the neighborhood of the spot where the Elder went ashore, showing how much foundation there is for the claim made that the board of trade is much to blame for not having long ago compelled the lighthouse department to erect a powerful light near or upon the ledge of rocks which the ill-fated Elder brought up upon.

INSTRUCTED FOR CLEVELAND.

Providence, R. I., March 2.—The resolutions as reported to the convention today instructed the delegates to vote for Cleveland. Hill men made a hard fight but were defeated.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Santa Ana, Cal., March 2.—Two slight shocks of earthquake were felt at 3:20 p. m. yesterday. The vibrations were from east to west.

OHIO REPUBLICANS

Fixing for the Coming State Convention.

April 15 and Columbus Seems to be the Slate Fixed Up by the Leaders.

Columbus, March 2.—(Special)—The time and place of holding the republican state convention has been seriously discussed during the last few days by leading republicans in this city.

It has been about agreed upon that the time of holding the convention shall not be later than April 15, and the place be Columbus.

It is intimated that delegates-at-large to be chosen by the convention will not be given instructions as to any particular candidate to be voted for.

The first choice will doubtless be President Harrison, but in the event that it becomes apparent that he or anyone else cannot be nominated, Ohio delegates are to be left free to exercise their own judgment and do that which circumstances may indicate to be best.

DOINGS IN TIFFIN.

Politicians Preparing for Their Convention.

Tiffin, O., March 2.—(Special)—The democratic city convention will meet in the city hall on Friday evening, March 11, and the republican convention the following Monday.

A city commissioner, gas trustee, two members of the city board of education and a councilman and assessor from each of the five wards comprises the list of officers to be chosen at the spring election.

The retiring commissioner, gas trustee, one member of the school board and two councilmen are republicans and the democracy intends to make a clean sweep. The party is in good trim and it is not probable that the republicans will elect an official next April.

The city gas trustees drille din a three million well with 300 pounds pressure on Judge McCauley's farm near Bloomdale yesterday afternoon.

Jonathan Webster, eighty years old, was buried here yesterday. He was the father-in-law of Couty Treasurer Goetz.

FOSTER ACROSS.

London, March 2.—Secretary Foster has arrived here after a stormy voyage. He is looking pale, but says he suffered no illness on the trip.

OCEAN MARINE.

New York, March 2.—Arrived—San Marcos, Galveston; Noordland, Antwerp; Chalmette, New Orleans.

MAHER IS THE FAVORITE.

The Tide is Turning Toward the Irishman.

Odds Will be Offered on Him Before Night.

The Big League Magnates in Session in New York—Toledo Again Reported in the Swim.

New Orleans, March 2.—Opinion on the great fight to-night between Fitzsimmons and Maher took a decided turn this morning in favor of the Irish lad and although it had not affected the betting up to 10 o'clock, the indications point strongly to the probability that the odds would be in his favor before the hour at which the two men are to get into the ring.

Under the influence of the big New York contingent and its barrel of money, the feeling is decidedly Maherish and Phil Daly's hot championship of the Irishman in particular has won for him a host of supporters who have all along been on the fence.

Maher, who is stopping at the West End, was up bright and early this morning. He is never much of a talker, but last night and this morning he was decidedly uncommunicative, contenting himself with saying that he was never a boast, but that he felt like winning.

Fitzsimmons reached here on the first train from his training grounds at Bay St. Louis shortly after noon, and was at once driven to a house on St. Charles avenue.

When told of the heavy betting he simply smiled and remarked that a lot of somebody's money would change hands tonight and although he did not say it in so many words, it was plain to see that he did not think that it would be his friends that would be found in sack cloth and ashes.

Ryan's sudden sickness and the resultant fiasco on Monday night has occasioned so much gossip of a decidedly uncomplimentary kind that it has been decided by his backers that the two men shall be gotten together within a couple of weeks, and a conference to arrange the preliminaries was held at noon.

Both sides are willing that there shall be a private meeting in the presence of a limited number of spectators and picked newspaper men.

TOLEDO IN THE SWIM.

This City Again Reported to Have Joined the Western.

"Toledo will have a base ball club this summer," said Mr. Will Robison to a Bee this morning.

Asked as to who was behind the scheme Mr. Robison did not say, but intimated that everything had been arranged.

This will be good news to the enthusiasts, who have been fooled so much that they want to see work on the grounds commenced before they do any celebrating on the subject.

NEEDHAM WON.

Jack Burke Knocked Out in the Tenth Round.

New Orleans, March 2.—Jack Burke took Ryan's place in the ring last night and made a strong fight against Needham, but could not win, the latter being declared victorious in the tenth round. The fight was hot from the start to finish.

In the tenth Needham landed a heavy left on the mouth, knocking Burke down, Needham falling with his man. The men got up and Needham knocked Burke out with a rattling right-hander on the jaw.

Burke made a gallant fight, however, against superior strength and science, seldom if ever excelled in a New Orleans club. Though a beaten man Burke fought a fair manly battle, and deserved the applause which he received. Many were the hand shakings given the plucky boy in token of congratulations.

The Big League.

New York, March 2.—The directors of the Consolidated League are in session in this city fixing up a schedule and arranging other minor details necessary to start the twelve-club affair on a proper basis.

The Western and Eastern league agreed to pay $500 for a national agreement protection similar to that in force before the disastrous brotherhood was, and in return the protected leagues are to receive $1,000 for every man drafted to the big league, between two playing seasons.

A telegram was read in the meeting from Manager Schmelz stating that all difficulties had been smoothed out and that Toledo would be the eighth club in the Western circuit. The telegram was greeted with applause.

MADE GOOD HIS ESCAPE,

After He Had Roped in Many Victims.

An Endowment Scheme Which Did Not Pan Out—The Organizer Makes Himself Scarce.

Birmingham, Ala., March 2.—Citizens of Birmingham have lost about $20,000 through M. Gelthorn. Gelthorn organized and operated an endowment association, which had all the paraphernalia of a first class enterprise.

He issued $100 engraved bonds to subscribers, who paid $72 on the installment plan.

At the end of 12 months the company was to pay face value on the bonds.

A series of these bonds fell due last Saturday. The bond holders are numerous but Gelthorn is being searched for in vain.

DEATH RATE INCREASING.

Child Beggars Swarm the Public Streets.

The Pinched and Pale Faces Tell Only Too Truly the Condition They Are In.

Vienna, March 2.—Horrible details have been received of the condition of the starving people at Namsstoa, in the county of Arva, Hungary.

Many have died of hunger and privation and those who survive are feeding on roots and bark.

Child beggars swarm everywhere, making pitiful appeals to travelers, while their pinched and pale faces show the sufferings they endure.

The death rate from famine is increasing and the survivors are preparing to emigrate, if they can, to some district where they can obtain a chance to live.

WANTS JUSTICE.

An Open Letter to Secretary Blaine

From the Divorced Wife of His Son.

The Great Diplomat Given Ten Days' Time

In Which to Tell the Truth Concerning Her.

If He Fails to Right the Wrongs Done Her She Will Publish Letters and Let the Public Act a Jury in Judgment.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 2.—Mrs. Jas. G. Blaine, jr., has furnished an open letter in reply to the "personal statement" made by James G. Blaine, sr., regarding the relations between Mr. Blaine, jr., and his wife, who was recently granted a divorce. The letter by Mrs. Blaine, jr., in full is as follows:

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 1.

"My Dear Sir—You have furnished the public with a remarkable production under the caption of a personal statement. I consider it my duty at this time to address you with that degree of dignity which your position as a public man entitles you to.

"I acknowledge your well-rendered, richly-deserved fame as a diplomat and appreciate fully the weight which your utterances possess, as fully as I do appreciate my own weakness and my total inability to cope with you in a personal encounter, but I shall expect from you that considerate and honorable treatment which I am sure your keen sense of equity and fairness will dictate.

"The powerful man of a great nation will surely accord to a weak and defenceless woman her full meed of justice. You surely can ill-afford to withhold it.

"I wish it distinctly understood by you that I am not asking sympathy. I respectfully demand justice. It is in your power to grant this simple request. It remains to be seen if you will do it. I will aid you by a suggestion.

"Have the kindness to publish in connection with your statement the full text of the letters you have quoted from. Do not, like a shrewd and unprincipled person, select only such pages as may be needed to make out a case, but give the entire contents to the public, that I may be judged righteously.

"You have the documents, surely, else you could not quote from them. I will give you sufficient time in which to conform to my reasonable demand, say 10 days. If at the end of that time you fail to respond I shall deem it my duty to give in substance their contents and corroborate my statement by publishing letters from your son, both prior and subsequent to our marriage.

"You know full well that your charges against me regarding the marriage are unfounded. I give you ample opportunity to retract. You have two alternatives, the one suggested or silence. Your consideration for your grandson will surely induce you to decide in favor of the first.

"This is not a proposed diplomatic engagement on my part, for your success in dealing with powerful nations is too well known for me to meet you on any ground than as the mother of your grandson.

"I take it that your sentiment was prompted chiefly by the remarks of Judge Thomas in rendering his decision which gave me my freedom. I have no defense to offer in his behalf. I simply declare now that you have arraigned me by the use of fragmentary quotations from my love letters to your son, that you be fair enough to publish the originals in full.

"I will then prove to the world that your son was far from a weakling, and that you, his proud father, well knew it long before he married me.

Yours truly,
Marie Nevins-Blaine.

To Mr. James G. Blaine, Washington, D. C.

The letter of Mrs. Blaine, jr., was written under the most trying circumstances. For days she had been extremely ill and not able to move from her bed. She declared constantly, after receiving her first information of the senior Blaine's personal statement, that she would immediately answer it for the benefit of the public, to be read the following day, but when she started at her task her strength failed her.

It was only by the aid of her strong will power that she managed to answer the senior Blaine. Her first thought was to give to the public a personal narrative of her experience as the wife of the youngest son of the secretary of state, but this she changed, believing that all the public need care for was the letters written by her husband. They explain everything, and the scraps of sentences taken from a half dozen or more letters are extremely misleading if the words of Mrs. Blaine, jr., are to be believed.

Should Blaine not answer the appealing missive, Mrs. Blaine, jr., declares that she will present to the public all the letters which have passed between her and the Blaines. All these letters she has now in her possession, and will prove, she declares, every statement made on the witness stand at Deadwood. She keeps these documents, with her decree, all tied in a bundle with a wide ribbon and should another attack be made they will be found at the disposal of the newspapers at an instant's notice.

"Jimmy" Blaine as He Is.

Boston, March 2.—The Blaine letters on the divorce question are attracting much attention.

There are at least three gentlemen residing in Boston at present who were students at Georgetown while young Blaine was a special student there during a few months of the school term of '84-'85.

One of these men in conversation with a reporter yesterday stated distinctly that Mr. Blaine, sr., is misled when he claims that his son and Miss Nevins met for the first time in August or September, 1886.

As a matter of fact, according to this man's statement, Miss Nevins and young Blaine were intimate enough in Washington to cause a great deal of comment.

Miss Nevins was quite a star in the amateur dramatic circles in the capital city, where her performances are remembered even to-day with pleasure.

Blaine was constantly dangling in her train, and the remark was often made that she was very foolish to waste even a thought upon him.

It is said that not a word of regret was heard in the college when his final retirement took place.

On the contrary, Miss Nevins was respected, and, as has been intimated, her connection with Blaine was regretted by all her friends, and when their acquaintance culminated in marriage many prophesied the very outcome that the last few days has seen.

A Good Doctor

MOTHER—NONE BETTER. See what she has in her favor. She's on the spot, she sees the first symptoms; she has sympathy. The little sufferer is bone of her bone and flesh of her flesh. Good points, every one. Add another—the right remedy—and you have as much certainty as can be had in this world that Baby will recover.

Dr. Hand has provided the remedy. In Pennsylvania, where he is best known, almost every mother will testify to this. Happy, healthy children is the evidence they offer.

A little Book, illustrated, full of sense and suggestion, will tell you more of Dr. Hand's work and his remedies. Any Mother can have the book sent to her free. Address

Galloway, David Reed, and Prof. Tater Ender.

Mrs. Maurice A. Scott writes from California that the recent earthquake experienced there created confusion worse confounded. The house rocked, the windows rattled and one could hardly brace themselves to keep their footing. The guests at the hotel all ran into the halls and shouted fire, murder, etc., and for a time there was a very informal meeting of dignified guests. Mrs. Scott has concluded that she has had about enough of California, and that after all there is no place like Toledo.

TOLEDO COAL OFFICIALS.

The Wabash Prefers Charges Against the Clover Leaf.

Transfer Charges at Toledo—A Toledo Rate Sheet—Earnings of Local Roads—Many Other Matters.

General Manager J. M. Ferris, General Freight Agent Hudson Fitch, of the Ohio Central lines, and General Manager A. G. Blair, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, will leave to-morrow for Pittsburg, to attend the meeting of the Ohio and Pennsylvania coal roads, for the purpose of discussing rates on coal to the lake front.

It is understood that the Pennslyvania company will work hard to bring about a rate from the Pittsburg district as low as from the Ohio fields. If this is done it will bring a vast amount of Pittsburg coal to Toledo for distribution. It would not be policy, however, for the Ohio producers and Ohio lines to allow such a rate to go into effect.

The C., J. & M. Matter.

Nothing definite was done at the meeting of those interested in the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw railroad yesterday afternoon. All parties concerned have not been heard from yet. Attorney Muzzey is up in Michigan to-day conferring with parties interested. If he can finish his business and return, another meeting will be held to-morrow afternoon.

Ohio Central Earnings.

The earnings of the Toledo & Ohio Central lines for the month of February were as follows:

Toledo & Ohio Central.
February, 1892	$96,821
February, 1891	92,799
Increase	$ 4,022
Toledo, Columbus & Cincinnati.
February, 1891	$25,320
February, 1892	23,997
Decrease	$ 1,323

A Toledo Rate Sheet.

In the matter of publishing a Toledo rate sheet the C., H. & D., the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo, the Ohio Central lines and the Wheeling & Lake Erie are in favor of so doing, while the Lake Shore, the Michigan Central, the Pennsylvania, the Wabash and the Ann Arbor are opposed to it. It is generally conceded that the present rate sheets used in Toledo territory are too expensive, particularly the Michigan rate sheet and that the rates are not in harmony.

It has been resolved by the Toledo Passenger committee that W. H. Fisher, general passenger agent of the C., H. V. & T., take up the question of rates from Toledo, published in the Michigan rate sheet, with the Railway Association of Michigan to secure, if possible, a participation therein by all lines from Toledo and an adjustment of the expense of this publication to a basis satisfactory to Toledo lines not members of the Michigan association.

Wabash and Clover Leaf.

The Wabash preferred charges, in the Toledo Passenger committee, against the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railroad, alleging that the first-named road had sold two tickets at a reduced rate to a Wabash agent who made the purchase to tset the market. The Clover Leaf has answered the committee that there wll be no further similar disturbance of rates and the charges have been dismissed, the Clover Leaf redeeming the tickets.

Transfer at Toledo.

It has heretofore been the custom of several lines to add the transfer of 25 cents to the through rate for the cost of transfering passengers from one road to another at Toledo. Other roads have not done so. At the next meeting of the local passenger committee the matter will be taken up with a view of fixing the transfer at Toledo at 25 cents, to be paid by the receiving line when the earnings of the receiving amounts to $2 or more, and when ess than this amount, to be paid by the initial line. The Wabash; C., H. & D.; Lake Shore; Michigan Central, and Ann Arbor are in favor of such an arrangement.

Getting in Shape.

The Lake Shore has sent instructions to its Toledo and other agents to make estimates of the number of persons who will attend the world's fair from their respective stations, in order to obtain figures upon which to base equipment arrangements.

Officer A. H. Braley
of the Fall River Police

Is highly gratified with Hood's Sarsaparilla. He was badly run down, had no appetite, what he did eat caused distress and he felt tired all the time. A few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla effected a marvellous change. The distress in the stomach is entirely gone, he feels like a new man, and can eat anything with old-time relish. For all of which he thanks and cordially recommends Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is very important that during the months of the blood should be thoroughly purified and the system be given strength to withstand the debilitating effect of the changing season. For this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses peculiar merit and it is the Best Spring Medicine. The following, just received, demonstrates its wonderful blood-purifying powers:

March April May

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen: I have had salt rheum for a number of years, and for the past year one of my legs, from the knee down, has been broken out very badly. I took blood medicine for a long time with no good results, and was at one time obliged to walk with crutches. I finally concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken one bottle the improvement was so marked that I continued until I had taken three bottles, and am now better than I have been in years. The Inflammation has all left my leg and it is entirely healed. I have had such benefit from that I concluded to write this voluntary statement." F. J. TEMPLE, Ridgeway, Mich.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market opens firmer; corn turn dearer; weather very cold. Liverpool wheat steady but dull; corn shade higher and firm.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 520,006 bushels, compared with 252,756 bushels on the same day last year.

The Chicago Tribune says: Just returning from Washington, Geo. M. How confirms the report that further action on the anti-option bills before the congressional committee will be deferred one month, and expresses the opinion that Washburn and Hatch will agree upon another and modified bill.

The quantity of wheat afloat in the river increased from 496,212 bushels a week ago to 817,339 bushels at the close of last Saturday. There was little change in the amounts of other grains in the harbor, with vessels seeking cargoes. Lake freights were dull on the basis of about 3 1-2c for wheat to Buffalo, including storage until the opening of navigation. Last year the straits were pronounced free of ice April 20.

The Press report says: New York, March 1.—August Belmont & Co. have ordered $500,000 gold coin for shipment to Europe to-morrow. Total ordered since Feb. 19, $1,315,326.

Congressman Donovan will endeavor to secure an appropriation for the dredging of the harbor at Perrysburg and Maumee, and for the making of a good passage for craft over Rock Bar.

Comment.—Congressman Donovan will learn later on that no appropriation can be made without previous survey and estimate.

Chicago Bulletin.—At Springfield, Illinois, Monday, in the case against J. M. B. Kehlor and Milton Knight, of St. Louis, for alleged violation of the interstate commerce law, Judge Allen decided that congress had no power to make any law regulating railway rates between points in the United States and points in foreign countries.

The winter crop in Russia, according to a telegram from St. Petersburg, have suffered seriously from the excessive cold which prevailed in January.

Early Spring in Kansas.—Topeka, Feb. 25. —Martin Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture, says: The indications are that the earliest in many years is likely. Farmers in many places are already sowing oats and barley, which is unusual for February. He says farmers are plowing in almost every county in the state and in fact there has only been about twoo weeks of this winter when a rustling Kansas farmer could not plow. If the present favorable weather continues all crops will be in the ground a month earlier than usual.

The receipts of wheat to-day are 50,000 bushels less, at seven points, than yesterday. Northwest contributes 303,261 bushels, and five other points 231,735 bushels. The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were light. Wheat, 195,967 bushels, and flour to an aggregate of 450,000 bushels. The exports of corn were 385,005 bushels, and of oats, 28,649 bushels. English markets as reported herein open rather firmer, without change in price of wheat. Corn shade higher.

Bradstreets' report of the visible supply makes wheat this side of the Rockies increased 103,000 bushels; corn, 799,000 bushels, and oats 370,000 bushels. On the Pacific coast wheat decreased 564,000 bushels.

It is plainly evident that the wheat markets in this country are sensitive to the least increase of firmness abroad, and ready to improve in price on very little encouragement. We are not surprised at it.

The deal is now almost wholly for May, and at 90c in Chicago it is clearly within exportable limits, based on a water freight, and this suggests the idea to us that a dealer must be blind to send winter wheat to Chicago and sell it at 90c for May when he can get 96c in Toledo. Toledo always is the best winter wheat market on the lakes. Please make a note of it.

The wheat markets on this side opened a shade better under the influence of firmer cables, but there was not much vim or vigor to the deal, and after a while market nearly lost the opening gain. When closing cables gave better markets abroad our markets were prompt to reflect it, and advanced.

Corn has a good many friends. The stocks are light—the roads prevent large movements, and the price furnishes no great inducement to shell from cribs. The situation indicates a cotillion for short sellers. New York prices are better to-day and Chicago unchanged.

Liverpool wheat market is quoted closing 1-2c up. Corn 1-4c.

Berlin shade higher. Paris, unchanged.

In New York.—March wheat closed 7-8c and May 1 1-8c up. March corn, 1-2c and May 5-8c up. March oats, 3-8c up.

In Chicago.—May wheat closed 1c higher. March and May corn about steady. May oats steady.

In Toledo.—There has been a moderately active wheat market, with a stronger and healthier tone. Opening sales were about 1-4c higher and the market gained and lost a little, and near the close advanced and closed 1 1-8c better for May. On the call May sold at 96 1-4@96 1-8c. After the call at 96 1-8c, and closed at 97c. July sold at 91@91 1-4c, and closed at 91 1-2c; August sold at 90c and closed at 90 1-4c.

Cash wheat was firm, but at the market trading was light; No. 2 soft sold at 95 1-2c, and at close 96 was the market. No sales in other grades.

Corn No. 2 at 41 1-2c; No. 3 at 41c; No. 4 at 39c.

Rye, No. 2 at 86c; No. 3 at 83c.

Clover seed was firm, with less doing. Prices are a shade lower. Prime for cash, $6 25; March at $6 25; timothy seed at $1 40.

THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The geological survey is one of the great agencies for scientific research organized by the general government. In the prosecution of its work several hundred men with their assistants are engaged, composed of experts in the various branches of knowledge relating to the subject. Rapidly the whole area of the United States is being examined by their trained eyes and submitted to the test of the crucible and the microscope. The continent is under process of dissection, and the characteristics of its anatomy are being revealed. With unerring fidelity the rock-leaved bible of geology is being translated from the language of nature—recorded in formations, fossils, crystals, and chemical elements and illustrated in many a mountain form, in many a billowy hill, in many a cliff, in many a valley, prairie, plain, and plateau—into printed tomes and charts.

When this translation is completed and the structure of the continent is explained, the origin of its rocks revealed, and its treasury of minerals set forth, a body of useful knowledge and a library of philosophic grandeur will be given to the people worthy of the greatest efforts of the greatest nation.—The Chatauquan.

Case Before Commissioner Hall—Heavy Suits Filed Against Railroads—News in General.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

Meeting This Evening—Two Officers to Be Tried.

The board of police commissioners will meet this evening, and among other business Patrolmen Langel and Herman will be tried on charges of neglect of duty. Other matters to come before the board are purely routine.

THE BELT ROAD.

Made Defendant In a Suit for $30,000.

In common pleas court to-day Steven Fosakoch sued the Toledo Belt line railroad company to recover $30,000 damages for personal injury. He alleges that while attempting to cross the railroad tracks at Grand avenue a train backed down and ran over him, cutting off his right arm, badly injuring his left, and breaking a leg. He claims there was no warning of the approaching train by light or sound.

STOVES REMOVED

From the Monroe Street Cars to Allow Passengers to Get In.

The stoves have been removed from the Monroe street cars on account of an obstruction of Monroe street by the placing of a sewer across the street. The cars stop at the blockade and hitch on to the other end of the car to return. It was necessary to remove the stoves to give the passengers an opportunity to get in. This state of affairs will only continue for a day or so.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM.

Now Is the Time That the River Pirate Commences Work.

As the season of navigation draws near the river pirates begin their harvest and vessel men will do well to protect their boats which are laid up along the docks. It is easy for the thieves to board the craft that is in winter quarters and they steal anything that they can get their hands on. A quantity of tools were stolen from the tug Dexter, and others report numerous petty thefts.

ASH WEDNESDAY.

The First Day of Lent—Ceremonies Incident Thereto.

To-day is Ash Wednesday, and Lent has now begun. To-day in all the Catholic churches of the city the solemn ceremonies incident to the event were performed. The sprinkling of the ashes and impressive services which in the Catholic churches introduces the Lenten season were features of the ceremonies. In all the Catholic churches services will be held Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evenings during Lent.

FIGHT OVER A WILL.

The Common Pleas Court Called to Pass on Some Questions.

Charles Christlieb, as guardian of Amelia Pottex, filed action in common pleas court to-day to secure rights under the will of Louis Pottex, deceased.

The sheriff says that the defendant, Matilda Pottex, wife of the deceased, was devised and bequeathed certain interests in the estate, upon condition that she should provide for the plaintiff, Amelia Pottex, minor daughter of the defendant. The plaintiff alleges the defendant refuses to comply with the terms of the will.

COMPLETE STATEMENT,

Giving Information Concerning Building and Loan Associations.

The Bee has been favored by H. F. Cellarius, of Columbus, inspector of building and loan associations, with a valuable compilation of the different organizations doing business in Ohio. According to the statement, it is remarkable what a number there are in the state. The list is given in alphabetical form, with the name of the association, where located, the secretary and time of ending of the fiscal year. Cincinnati branches are grouped together. The document will prove invaluable as a means of information to all interested.

LOST A LEG,

And Now Sues for Twenty-five Thousand Dollars.

In common pleas court to-day William O'Brien sued the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad company to recover $25,000 damages for personal injury.

In his petition the plaintiff says that he went to work for the company as switchman in the Toledo yards on November 11, 1891, at 6 o'clock in the evening. At 4 o'clock the next morning, while standing in position to make a coupling his foot became fastened in a guard rail crevice, which had not been blocked, and before he could get loose the train run over him, and as a result he lost his leg.

BAD WALKS.

Two Places on Prominent Business Streets That Should Be Attended To.

The attention of the sidewalk inspector is called to the miserable condition of the sidewalk on the west side of St. Clair street, between Adams and Madison, opposite the Bee building. This walk is of brick and has sunken in several places so that in muddy weather it is impassible. The walk has been in this shape for several years and caused much complaint from people who use St. Clair street. It is a disgrace to the business part of the city and should receive some attention.

Another brick walk in a similar condition is that on the south side of Jefferson street between Summit and St. Clair.

PUT UP A BOND

Roughan Promises to Take Care of His Child—Another Child Deserter Sentenced.

J. W. Roughan, charged with neglecting child, as mentioned in the Bee last week, entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning, and was sentenced to three months in the workhouse. This sentence, however, was suspended, providing a bond of $1,000 shall be given to the city insuring that the child will be taken care of. Roughan's mother paid the costs in the case, and furnished the required bond and on this the prisoner was released.

Michael O'Neil was also tried for neglecting child and, being found guilty, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment. O'Neil did not furnish any bond, and will be obliged to serve his time.

THE NEW SOUTH.

Excursions Being Planned for the Coming Month.

Mr. George J. Clarke is engaged in the land and excursion business, and thus has far been a booming success. His next venture is one to Harriman, Tennessee, which leaves over the C., H. & D. and Queen & Crescent routes April 14.

This town has had a wonderful growth. It has increased from one farm house in 1890 to a lively place of 4,000 people now. A land sale will be in progress on April 12, 13 and 14, which will give visitors a chance to invest in a most desirable locality. The excursion will undoubtedly be well patronized by residents of this sectoin.

HO FOR WASHINGTON.

Some of the G. A. R. Posts Will Go via the C., H. & D.

Quite a number of the G. A. R. posts in this territory will go to Washington on the occasion of the national encampment there September 20, via the C., H. & D. and B. & O. roads, passing through Cincinnati and picturesque Virginias, through many of the battle fields, Clifton Forge, Staunton, Buse City, Charlottesville, Gordonsville, Orange Rapidan, Culpeper, Rappahannock, Manassas, Alexandre, Richmond, Old Point Comfort, Fortress Monroe, the Wilderness, Appomattox, passing through the headquarters of Lee and the place where he surrendered the rebel army to Gen. Grant. It will make a most interesting route.

BROUGHT FROM TIFFIN.

Uncle Sam Lays Hold of a Transgressor Hearing This Afternoon.

Frank Kittenmeyer, an all around thief, who has done time for burglary in the Ohio and Michigan penitentiaries, was arrested at Tiffin last night by Government Detective F. Latham, of Detroit, for stealing a mail pouch from the B. & O railway depot in Tiffin last Friday night and rifling it of its contents.

Kittenmeyer admits his guilt, and implicates a mail carrier in the crime, but that portion of his story is not believed. He also confessed to committing several petty burglaries which have occurred in Tiffin within the last fortnight. He was brought to Toledo this morning, and will have a preliminary hearing before Commissioner Hall this afternoon.

TOLEDO BUILDERS' EXCHANGE.

There Were Ten Applications for the Position of Secretary.

Last evening the directors of the Toledo Builders' Exchange met to take up the matter of electing a secretary. There were ten applicants for the position, to which is attached a salary of $700. Several ballots were taken without success, and the election was postponed until next Tuesday.

It was decided to purchase furniture and a safe immediately. A motion to make the initiation fee $50 was carried. The membership roll at present contains 169 names.

President Romeis and Vice President Bentley were appointed a committee to go to Pittsburg and Cleveland and investigate the methods of conducting building exchanges in those cities.

Mr. Donavan presented the board with an ivory gavel.

BREACH OF PROMISE.

A Polish Maiden Wants $3,000 for Damaged Affections.

A suit developing a sensation in Polish circles was filed in common pleas court to-day.

The plaintiff, Mary Winiaszenski, sues the defendant, Stanislaw Tafelski, to recover $3,000 damages.

The plaintiff in her petition alleges that on the night of January 24, 1892, Stanislaw proposed marriage to her and that she accepted. All was lovely and the date fixed to celebrate Washington's birthday, February 22, by the marriage ceremony. Mary states that she was ready and willing; that before the date of the important event was at hand Stanislaw plighted his troth with another maiden named Konstancia Zeilinski, and married her on February 29. She says that after his engagement to the other girl he published the fact to his and her friends much to her shame.

THE ST. CECILIAS

Elect Officers and Attend to Some Other Business.

Last evening the St. Cecilia (Catholic) society held its annual election of officers and revised the by-laws and constitution somewhat.

Miss Bee Daly presided and the following officers were elected:

President—Miss D. Mansue.
First Vice President—Mrs. Frey.
Second Vice President—Miss D. Hurst.
Recording Secretary—Miss Birdie Conlisk.
Financial Secretary—Miss Nellie Moroney.
Treasurer—Mrs. Nellie Higgins.
Guard—Miss Marguerite Welsh.

The matter of an entertainment was discussed and definite action postponed.

The death benefit was raised from $50 to $100. The weekly sick benefits will remain as heretofore—$5 a week.

The society is in a sound financial condition and the membership is increasing weekly.

MISS CHARLESWORTH'S RECEPTION.

A Very Pleasant Affair Yesterday Afternoon.

Miss Edith Charlesworth gave a very pretty reception yesterday at her pleasant home on Jefferson street. The hostess was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Polk, of Detroit, and Miss Mary Chapin. Miss Ruth Chapin, Miss Grace McConkey and Mrs Arnold assisted in the parlors. The rooms were beautifully decorated. Mantles were banked, curtains of smilax hung in the doorways, and cut flowers appeared in profusion. The hours were from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Among the numerous guests present were Misses Werna Marx, Sophie Mery, Bertha Marx, Nannie Mery, Lucretia and Mary Heston, Clara Hart, Mary Cochran, Gertrude Knights, Lillian Clouse, Florence Fisk, Lillian Goldsmith, Mattie Tracy, Olive Parmalee, Susie Parmalee, Edith Breckenridge, Maude Breckenridge, Susie Feise, Jennie Burdick, Jeannette Kenyon, May Taylor, Fanchon Hubble and her guest Miss Fisher, Brace Hubbard, Edith Hubbard, Mabel Scrafford, Florence Curry, Belle Stow, Miss Harriet, Miss Dunlap, Miss Daiber, Miss Brown, Mrs. J. N. Mockett, Messrs. Arthur Burdick, Samuel Watt, Geo. W. Stevens, Frank Baumgardner, Charles King, Burt Greer, Harry Buckwell, J. Lee Richmond and Prof. McPherson. It was a most enjoyable affair. Young society people are sorry to learn that Miss Charlesworth is soon to remove to Cleveland.

UNDERHILL'S RIVALS

Presented at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Night.

Mr. Chas. F. Underhill, of New York, impersonator, essayed a difficult task last night at the Y. M. C. A. hall. It was no less an effort to bring before his audience without the accessories of stage sellings, and with only one voice to take the several parts of a great comedy with which the public is familiar and therefore the more critical. It was announced simply as "A Recital of The Rivals, a Comedy, by Richard Barnsley Sheridan." The novelty of the entertainment has caused it to be much noticed in other cities and there was consequently curiosity to see it.

Mr. Underhill fully sustained the reputation with which he came to the city. The attempt, ambitious as it was, was well sustained and there was not a scene which did not provoke applause. Mr. Underhill was at times Sir Anthony, Captain Jack, Bob Acres, Sir Lucius, Mrs. Malaprop, Lydia and the two servants—David and Lucy.

Some of the scenes called for as many as four to be upon the stage at the same time, yet the dialogue of each was rendered without confusion, and the different characters brought out strongly. The flexibility of Mr. Underhill's voice is truly remarkable. He was in the same scene the gruff and choleric Sir Anthony, the laughing Lydia, the strident Mrs. Malaprop and the embarrassed but impudent Jack Absolute. The whole entertainment was a great success and the association may be complemented upon securing such good attractions for the Y. M. C. A. course. Many expressed desires that he appear in the Star course next season.

DECORATIVE ART.

Its Cultivation Ably Treated by Rev. Dr. Jennings Before the New Century Club.

A large audience, representing our cultured and intellectual social element, assembled at Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Macomber's last evening at the regular reunion of the New Century club. In absence of the president, Mr. H. B. Tillinghast was called to the chair, Miss Mary Law secretary.

Rev. Dr. Jennings prefaced his paper by stating that it was written 20 years ago, when the teaching of decorative art attracted public attention in Boston. Being called upon to fill the place of another essayist, he had chosen this subject, believing it was quite as applicable now to our own community.

When it was found, two decades since, that there were no native artisans in Massachusetts who were competent to follow as a profession designing and decoration in mechanical industries, and that such artists had to be imported, a desire arose to cultivate this art education among the young of our own land.

The beneficial results of the teaching of drawing from nature, from the lowest to the highest grades in the Massachusetts schools, were clearly delineated, and such education strongly advocated in all the schools of our nation as a tendency to development of correct art taste and the later pursuit of any mechanical profession. The club were in sympathy with views advanced by the essayist.

Miss Fokens, of the manual training school, being called upon, spoke of the methods employed in the Toledo schools to foster this development, and the success so far attending it.

The growth in art studies in our city within the last decade was discussed, especially the instruction of which such a large number avail themselves in the Osthaus Academy of Painting. Such a school could not have been supported 15 years ago. Also that many private art teachers are finding good financial remuneration among us.

The conversation following the essay was engaged in by Misses Bouton, Law, Fockens, Madames A. M. C. Barnes, Emma Parmalee, E. S. Fray, Rev. D. M. Fisk, Rev. Dr. Jennings, A. E. Macomber, H. B. Tillinghast and others.

The next meeting on the 15th will be held with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Tillinghast, Eleventh street, the essayist to be hereafter announced.

AMONG THE K. P.'S.

Notes Gathered Here and There Among the Brethren.

Anthony Wayne lodge, No. 141, will celebrate its tenth anniversary on the evening of March 10. A reception, with some other pleasant features will be enjoyed.

Lucas lodge's team will institute Turkey Foot lodge at Maumee on the 17th.

Toledo division will drill to-night, Capt. Austin giving the commands.

William Tell division was put through their facings last evening.

A number of visitors attended the session of Beauty lodge at Air Line Junction last night. The lodge was presented with a large picture of the brother after whom the lodge was named, and Mr. G. H. Cheseboro remembered the lodge with a neatly framed photograph of the Pythian castle.

Initial steps are being taken by the Air Line lodge to erect a building of their own.

J. D. Batch is now drilling No. 20's team.

Over 100 ladies attended the meeting yesterday for the purpose of organizing a branch of the Pythian Sisters. Two weeks from to-day the new society will be instituted, and success seems assured.

A reception was tendered last evening by Capt. and Mrs. J. Austin, jr., to the members of Toledo division and their ladies at the pretty residence on Oakwood avenue. After an hour spent in becoming better acquainted, cards were taken up, and a very enjoyable evening was had. Dainty refreshments were served. The social feature will be cultivated by the members to a greater extent in the future. Mr. and Mrs. Austin have set the step, and undoubtedly other events will follow in quick succession.

L. G. Richardson, of this city, and Hon. John W. Winn, of Defiance, are booked for addresses at Anthony Wayne's celebration.

Work on the new headquarters for Steedman lodge is progressing nicely.

Sick benefits are absorbing the dues paid in these days.

Dr. G. D. Keeler, of No. 20, has taken up his residence in Los Angeles, Cal., but still retains his membership in Toledo.

THE REASONS WHY

The Board of Education Refused to Sanction

The Doty Bill—Clearly and Forcibly Presented by the Committee of the Whole.

To the Editor: The Bee and the Blade of last night's issue, both inquire for reasons why the board of education refuses to sanction the Doty bill. The Bee calls them cowards. Now we must not be too severe. The reason why they gave no reason last Monday night was doubtless because they possess an unusual share of that timidity, which, in the Woman Suffragist is supposed to be conspicuous by its absence. But if the unlimited exercise of the franchise has left these men so modest, they must no longer argue that school suffrage alone would render women less so.

The committees from the various women's organizations of the city, have interviewed the members of the school board. One after another of these men, coyly gave us his reasons for his prospective vote. Their constituents have a right to know these reasons, and to the end that justice may be done the voters of the nine wards of Toledo, we rehearse them.

Two men voted to indorse the bill. Of the remaining seven—one could not indorse it, although he believed it would be a good thing, because, he said, we have no right to "dictate" to the legislature. This, clearly, is modesty.

Another personally favored it. "He had seen a woman in Detroit once, who was a member of the school board, and she was a real nice appearing woman, too. But he feared to injure his trade by offending the German element, who don't believe, you know, that women should say too much!" This is thrift, and an eye to business.

Another was decidedly in favor of it, but would have to wait and see how the rest were going to vote. If it was likely to pass, he would vote for it. If not, of course he must vote against it. This is politics—pure and undefiled.

Another "don'dt vant no vomen aroundt." This is an imported point of view, from which the McKinley bill does not protect us.

The next could never indorse any measure that would make it possible for women to do such an unwomanly thing as to vote for a member of the board of education. This is chivalry—one of the diseases of youth.

The sixth violently opposed it, because it was the height of presumption for any one to "dictate" to the legislature. He had given the matter of school suffrage no thought whatever, his entire attention being absorbed in the horror of trying to influence the legislature by force of reason. This is more modesty together with principle. The two form a strong combination.

The seventh, alone, refused to tell us what he thought of the measure, or how he purposed voting. Absolutely polite, he was likewise absolutely non-committal. "Faultily faultless, icily regular, splendidly null." This is evidence of a judicial turn of mind.

Not one among them all, mentioned the Catholic phase of the question in its remotest bearing.

These, then, are the "reasons" of the Seven Wise Men of Toledo: First, Modesty; second, thrift; third, politics; fourth, influence of the fatherland; fifth, chivalry; sixth, more modesty; seventh, no reason given.

And the greatest of these is politics—up to date.

Tariff or silver? If the tariff question were fairly adjusted, the silver question would soon fall into lines of solution.

Indications are that New York republicans will have a squabble of their own to attend to.

Gov. McKinley is cutting off democratic trustee heads right and left, and few will be left when the dandelions bloom in the spring.

When the Blaine pocket book was hit, Blaine pere was called to the front. He will wish he had footed the bills and kept his mouth shut.

There are eight Yale men on the faculty of the new Chicago university. What wounds the worst is that one of these is "the stroke oar of the winning crew."

It goes on record that the highest tide ever yet known on the New York and New Jersey coast, struck there at midnight, March 1, 1892.

Col. James E. Neal was reappointed a trustee of the epileptic asylum and the senate confirmed the appointment without reference, a compliment which the friends of Mr. Neal appreciate.

Georgia democrats, with wholesome fear of another possible season of carpet-bag republican and irresponsible negro rule, decline to join any third party, at the present time. Self preservation is the first law of nature.

China will proceed to hustle every American out the gates of the Celestial country if the new law against John goes into effect in this country. Right; such spirit is commendable. Think of Candidate Blaine's escape.

Ingalls has sprung into the political arena again. The feat was performed last night at the meeting of the state republican leagues in Topeka. He begins where he left off—he "is not a candidate for the senate."

The republican party is held responsible for the legislation of the later years of the republic which brought such oppression to the people that a "People's Party" is the protest. Yet, on the list of possible and probable candidates of both these parties is found one and the same name—Gresham. Rather odd, isn't it?

The destruction of gas mixers by order of the gas trustees was such a flagrant exhibition of incompetent and reckless business qualifications that, if done in private capacity for an employer would have resulted in prompt dismissal from service. All of the confusion, all of the waste of money and much of the destruction of public property must be charged to the incompetency of these public servants.

Why are the high-taxers so wroth that the democrats in congress did not attempt the impossible and try to repeal the McKinley tariff law at one fell swoop? It would have been easy to meet them then with the "grand-principle-of protection" cry, but the fear is that to take wool, salt, lumber, binding twine, farming implements, or what else, singly, and follow facts and figures concerning them through to conclusions, the truth will be made too plain.

English newspapers are contending about the propriety of placing a bust of Lowell near that of Longfellow in the poets' corner of Westminster Abbey. The St. James Gazette objects and makes a sneer about "the Yankees." History records that the Yankees ask no odds of them on any occasion whatever. Lowell's bust will be placed, and his memory will be revered in high places throughout the English-speaking world, if there is no reminder of him in their gloomy, tomby old abbey.

FIGHTING A WOMAN.

Mr. Blaine is the most forceful republican of this generation with his pen. He possesses the artful faculty of play the Sphinx until opportunity for explosive expression is presented, then he explodes, and the noise is heard to the echo. He is the Henry Clay of modern political letter writing, and is seldom taken at disadvantage.

This much, and all, of his political writing. Aside from that well-trodden and familiar path he is as stupid as an ass. Even as stupid as the most perverse of the long-eared, else he would have more sense than to engage in controversy in public print with a woman —a woman who at this time has the generous sympathy of the generous American public—a woman whose ancestry, not remote, is better than the Blaines', if the Blaine family history be not untruthfully written.

Marie Nevins Blaine, the unfortunate woman just divorced from the degenerate son of a notorious sire, is the granddaughter of Samuel Medary, than whom no nobler man ever lived on American soil. In the days when newspapers were few and some editors exceptionally great, Sam Medary, editor of the Columbus Statesman, was great among the famous, a leader of writers, a democrat who was feared by the enemies of good government and respected by honest men everywhere. He died during the war, the editor of the Columbus Crisis, a journal of power and influence.

Mrs. Nevins, the mother of Marie, is Col. Medary's beloved daughter. An educated, cultured girl, the belle of Columbus society, she long has been the honored wife of Richard Nevins—now unfortunate Dick—formerly the wealthy public printer of Ohio. This mother, this daughter of Medary, Mr. Blaine also attacks and applies insinuating remarks that are an insult to virtuous womanhood.

A fighter of women is this man Blaine, a coward and poltroon for the act, a man to be despised of all men. It were charity to say he must be daft, for no man of decent methods or manly impulses would mud at a woman. If the two Nevins, mother and daughter—daughter and granddaughter of Sam Medary do not make Mr. Blaine repent of his ungentlemanly attack, then they have lost the ability which of right is theirs by inheritance.

PRINCE AND PEASANT.

Chicago has a club composed of sixty millionaires, named the "Commercial." They were the leading spirits in getting up the big congressional picnic from Washington to that city. A New York paper which boasts of a "circulation among the best people" prints a description of the magnificence of these millionaires and then goes on to say,

The granger congressman toiling industriously in behalf of the dear people at his post in the house, writing innumerable epistles in questionable English to multitudinous plain-living constituents and laboriously eating pie with his knife in the house restaurant or nibbling in the corner of the cloakroom at sandwiches brought in a handkerchief from his boarding house is one thing.

The same statesman rolling luxuriously westward in a pullman car with his wife and female descendants, delicately sipping Pomery Sec from dainty cut glass, inhaling the odor of 25-cent cigars and fastidiously selecting from an elaborate menu the triumphs of Parisian cookery to satisfy his critical palate, is a different order of being. Brought under the influences of a refining civilization and the social amenities, surrounded by the good things of life and indulging in its creature comforts, the granger is not a bad sort of a fellow an ddevelops mellowing qualities hitherto unsuspected.

Nothing remarkable about this except as it illustrates the rapidly growing un-American spirit of prince and peasant. The farmer is the butt of amusement and ridicule of these tariff-fed monopolists and millionaires who invite him to a picnic that they may be amused by his antics and enjoy seeing him "mellow, under the influences of a refining civilization." The granger, who may or may not eat pie with a knife, is likely to be the superior of the club princes in all but the species of cunning that goes to make the successful money-getter. There should be no reason in this country of alleged freedom why the granger shouldn't be "surrounded by the creature comforts of life," as well as the other party, whose wealth depends upon the farmer's toil and thrift. He may not know Pomery Sec from Spanish port, made in California, but there are a few other things he shows signs of finding out in which the merry millionaires are profoundly interested.

Mrs. H. K. Baldwin, one of the victims of the collision at Hastings, in a New York hospital, has lost the last ray of light and is now totally blind in addition to loss of arms, ears, scalp, and skin of a portion of the face. She said to a Herald reporter, as the bandages were removed and the frightful wounds exposed: "Look at me. No one can tell what I have suffered. I have tried to be brave, but now that my sight is gone I cannot help despairing. Mr. Chauncey Depew may be a fine after-dinner speaker, but I wonder what kind of an after-collision speech he would make if he should see me here. Oh, if the dear Lord would take me home." Our Chauncey hasn't time to visit hospitals. He may be sitting up nights investigating different kinds of block signals for railway trains on his road, which, according to testimony, he has been doing for the last fifteen years.

Freddie Gebhardt has taken a four weeks course at the White Plains Keeley Institute, and is so nearly cured of dru—— dipsomania he "can smoke cigars all day with evident relish." Perhaps the operations of these institutes should be limited as to the actual blessings they confer upon mankind in the restoration of patients.

The report of the Great Northern railway just filed shows gross earnings for last year to be $5,308,000, over $1,000,000 more than the earnings during the previous year. The increase is due to the tremendous wheat crop in northern Minnesota and Dakota.—Ex. No reason why the farmers shouldn't get rich.

THEY ENTER A PROTEST.

Vessel Men Opposed to the Inspection Bill.

Cleveland, O., March 2.—The Cleveland Vessel Owners' association to-day indorsed a protest against the passage of senate bill No. 1,755, as inimical to the shipping and commercial interests of the northwestern lakes and their tributary waters.

The protest is against certain features of the bill which place vessel traffic on the great lakes on a par with the traffic of the open sea.

The claim is made that thoroughly competent engineers will not be qualified to manage engines on lake vessels under the conditions imposed, and that the enforcement of the provisions would paralyze the lake traffic by throwing vessels out of commission. The inspection feature is useless, arbitrary and unjust. On the whole, the passage of the bill will be a blow to lake commerce that will be difficult if not impossible to overcome.

WILL INVESTIGATE.

Washington, March 2.—The house and senate committees on immigration leave for New York Friday next to investigate the admission of immigrants affected by typhus fever from the steamer Massilia. On Saturday they will visit Ellis island to proceed with the investigation; Sunday or Monday the committee will return to Washington and later in the week a subcommittee of the joint committee will visit New York city to continue the investigation.

BALTIMORE DAMAGES.

Washington, March 2.—The claims of the crew of the Baltimore for damages for injuries and false imprisonment during the Valparaiso riots have been filed at the state department. The total is $2,055,000, and the individual claims range from $30,000 to $150,000.

RULES CHANGED.

Washington, March 2.—Acting Secretary Spaulding has modified the treasury regulations so as to permit entry of goods for consumption to be completed on the posting in the custom house of the vessel's arrival.

BIG SILVER STRIKE.

Denver, Col., March 2.—A special from Crede says: Great excitement prevails here over a big strike made in the ridge. A chunk of pure silver, weighing 57 pounds, was taken out. The big nugget was sent to Del Norte.

INGALLS DECLINED.

Kansas City, Mo., March 2.—Ex-Senator Ingalls has declined an offer of $10,000 a year to become the editor of a new local afternoon newspaper.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Duke of Norfolk gives away more money to charities than any other member of the British peerage.

Senator Hoar's trouble with his eyes seems to be getting rather serious, and it is likely to keep him away from the senate chamber for some time yet.

Gen. Henry R. Jackson is liked by everybody in the Mexican capital, and he is said to be the most popular minister that has ever represented the United States there.

Mr. Ingalls is making so much money by lecturing that he hasn't any desire "to return to congress." The situation fits in with the popular desire. People are not compelled to listen to his lectures.

Gen. Burd Grubb in his city troop uniform, and his bride, late "the Rose of Lisburn," in her fresh Irish beauty and new French dresses, are said to be shaking the social foundations of the aristocracy of Madrid.

Tennyson is a great reader of novels, and so absorbed does he become in such literature at night sometimes that it is hard to persuade him to go to bed. Like many less distinguished people who indulge in this practice he rises late.

Gen. Butler's modest appreciation of undoubted merit is shown in what he says of Gen. Grant: "He was a very great general in many respects." The public generally will indorse this opinion even if they doubt any part of it would fit its author.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles should, in regular order of promotion, become the general commanding the United States army two years hence. In that case he will be the first man since Gen. Winfield Scott, not graduated from West Point, to hold that place.

The Rev. T. E. Clough, a well-known Baptist missionary who labored in India and who is staying in Minneapolis at present, is said to resemble Secretary Blaine greatly, when in Washington has been mistaken

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That the social season just closed for a time was a decidedly lively one.

That Volunteer post of the Grand Army will present itself for inspection to-night.

That it is rather dangerous to ask Sheriff Stuart or any of his deputies how they like the salary law.

That March has started in at a rather rapid gait, but it is hoped the weather clerk will hold it down.

That the chances are against the formation of a new precinct in the Ninth ward at least this spring.

That Dr. G. P. Campbell, of Fulton county, returns to a seat on the Toledo asylum board with colors flying.

That the members of the board of education are daisies when it comes to passing on a legislative bill for woman suffrage.

That Toledoans are anxiously awaiting information of the passage of the bill by congress providing for the extension of the government building.

That the contemplated candidacy of Louis Steuer for street commissioner makes Henry Bower feel very uncomfortable, to say the least.

That Byron Ritchie will preside at the coming democratic city convention, which is a guarantee that business will be done in a satisfactory manner.

That Jim Campbell has many warm friends in this part of the state who would be happy to see his name at the head of the national democratic ticket.

That local Epworth Leagues will be well represented at the district convention in Elmore next week. Several Toledoans are on the program for papers.

That a pretty fight is in progress for the superintendency of the free employment bureau, with Fred Raitz figuring that he has the largest pole to knock the persimmons.

That the Ohio republican league is receiving some hard knocks on account of the disappearance of Orator Lewis and Organizer Nott, both of who were shining lights.

That the next theatrical attraction in the amateur line will be the play to be presented by the Press club, and which, it may be said, is to be out of sight, compared with other previous events.

That the democratic city committee has made a decided innovation in the matter of nominating ward tickets but it is one which will meet with the approval of the great majority of democratic voters.

That "Bones" Robinson of the post-office force is now thinking of running against Street Commissioner Bower. "Bones" can carry the Second ward delegation to the convention, as he has often done before.

The Lottery Still in It.

A new aspect was given to the anti-lottery campaign by John A. Morris' letter of February 3, in which he withdrew his offer to Louisiana of $1,250,000 a year in return for a constitutional privilege to conduct lotteries in that state for 25 years from January 1, 1894. On that date the old charter of the Louisiana State Lottery company will have expired. But in the meantime, unless the company withdraws at once from business, the Louisiana lottery will have opportunity for nearly two years to prey on the other states in defiance of their laws.—Century.

Sounds Like Ancient Times.

There is said to be a long lost silver mine in Nevada. W. E. Gooding, formerly of St. Paul, Minn., has organized a company which will search for it, employing a clairvoyant for the purpose. Already a considerable sum of money has been put into the enterprise, doubtless much to the benefit of the clairvoyant.—New Orleans Delta.

McKinley's Patronage.

Mr. McKinley is dispensing the state patronage of Ohio with a liberal hand to the followers of Foraker, who, he expects, will control the Ohio delegation to Minneapolis against Harrison. In view of this fact Shelby M. Cullom no doubt realizes what he lost when he broke with F.fer.—St. Louis Republic.

"Me and Harrison."

The remark of the chap who noted that he and the Vanderbilt family were worth untold millions is recalled by Senator Cullom's observation that the presidential nomination now lies between himself and President Harrison.—Boston Herald.

Turn Perry loose. Editor Garza wants him. Garza and Perry as a chapparal ticket would not give Diaz a walkover in the next presidential campaign.—New York Commercial.

Plenty of Good Democrats.

It should be borne in mind that no one man has a mortgage on the democratic party. It isn't that kind of a party.—Washington Register.

THE SAYWARD CASE.

London, March 2.—The Standard says the decision in the Sayward case leaves the diplomatic situation precisely what it was before. There is no reason to assume that the court has considered the international equities. Failure to procure a judicial pronouncement on the validity of the pretensions set up by the Washington authorities will rather facilitate than prejudice a full and amicable settlement by the arbitrators.

IRONCLAD DESTROYER.

Washington, March 2.—The senate committee on coast defences heard a short argument by Gen. Berdan, president of the Berdan Manufacturing company of New York, on the bill introduced by Mr. McPherson, authorizing the secretary of the navy to contract with the Berdan Manufacturing company for a Berdan ironclad destroyer. The committee will hear Gen. Berdan again next week.

HEAVY SNOW.

Nyack, N. Y., March 2.—The deepest snow of the season covers the ground in the villages of the lower Hudson this morning. There are numerous deep drifts in some parts of Rockland county. High winds prevailed throughout the night and considerable damage was done to telegraph and telephone wires.

JACOB SNYDER DEAD.

Nyack, N. Y., March 2.—Jacob Snyder, one of the most prominent citizens of the town of Ramapo, Rockland county, died this morning at Spring Valley, of paralysis. He was 67 years old. He had held many public offices in the town.

HIS HEART WAS WEAK.

London, March 2.—Rev. Richard Page, a Congregationalist clergyman, attempted to hang himself in a railway carriage yesterday, but was rescued. He was despondent at being invited to resign his pulpit.

NICOLL ESCAPED.

New York, March 2.—The grand jury to-day made a presentment exonerating District Attorney Nicoll from the charge of unfaithfulness to duty made in a sermon by Rev. Dr. Parkhurst recently.

THE PARNELL ESTATE.

Dublin, March 2.—John Parnell has completed arrangements for the sale at auction of the Parnell estate at Avondale. When this has been effected he will return to the United States.

NOISY MEETING.

Berlin, March 2.—About 400 anarchists held a noisy meeting in this city last night. The fact that the police did not interfere is commented on as curious, in view of recent riots.

CONGRESS OF CARDINALS.

WERE AFTER CAPT. PRATT

He Charged That the Catholics Got Too Much,

And Congress Promptly Cut Off His Salary.

A Warm Debate in the House of Representatives in Which Religion Played a Prominent Part.

Washington, March 2.—The Catholic church and the charge that it maintains a lobby at Washington to manipulate appropriations in behalf of Indian sectarian schools, were the subject of three hours' acrimonious discussion in the house yesterday.

The Indian appropriation bill was the measure under consideration and the immediate cause of the religious discussion was the section making appropriation for the Carlisle Indian school.

It was stated in the house that Capt. R. H. Pratt of the United States army, superintendent of that school, in speaking of the attack made in the house against the appropriation for the Indian school, had said: "They were made through the Catholic church, in paying congressmen to attack the national schools, because they are detrimental to their parochial schools, which are given three times the amount by the government that other denominations receive."

Congressman Mansur, of Missouri, Stockdale, of Mississippi, and Pendleton, of West Virginia, who were understood, by implication, to be the congressmen referred to, made a lively attack on Capt. Pratt and demanded a penalty for his utterances that the $1,000 appropriation which he annually receives as superintendent of the Carlisle Indian school be stricken from the Indian appropriation bill.

The house was powerless to express its displeasure in any more forcible way than this, as Capt. Pratt, being an officer in the United States army, his rank and pay as captain are beyond the reach and regulation of congress.

The superintendent of the Indian school had many defenders in the house, however, and it was more his reiterated declaration by telegraph to-day than the original newspaper statement that finally led the house to adopt the amendment cutting off his salary as superintendent.

Several of his congressional friends who doubted whether the superintendent had made the statement attributed to him, telegraphed him to know his exact declaration. The answer which was wired back and subsequently read in the house was about as bad as the original statement.

"My statement," telegraphed Captain Pratt, "was that Catholics got more than double as much Indian school appropriations as other denominations combined; that they maintain a powerful lobby in Washington and manipulate politics to accomplish their purposes. These were the general statements, having no bearing whatever on individual members of congress, much less to Mr. Mansur, in whose general views I concur."

This was quite satisfactory to Mr. Mansur, but it was not very consoling to anybody else, and its reading had the effect of causing the house promptly to adopt the proposed amendment.

Mr. Bynum, of Indiana, presided in the committee of the whole when the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill was resumed, and the attack on Capt. Pratt was revived in a motion of Mr. Mansur to strike out the $1,000 extra annual allowance to Capt. Pratt as superintendent of the Carlisle school. After a long debate the motion to strike out was agreed to, 93 to 37, and the committee rose and reported the bill to the house.

The previous question having been ordered, Mr. Pickler, of South Dakota, demanded a separate vote on the amendment providing that when vacancies shall hereafter occur in Indian agencies they shall be filled with army officers detailed for the duty by the president. The amendment was adopted. Yeas, 142; nays, 54.

Mr. Joseph, of New Mexico, was fortunate enough to secure (notwithstanding Mr. Holman's opposition) the adoption of an amendment increasing by almost $5,000 the appropriations for the Indian school at Santa Fe, N. M.

The bill was then passed.

THE REPUBLICAN SIDE

Of the Question of Cheaper Necessaries.

Strained Argument to Make People Believe That Taxation Makes Them Rich.

Washington, March 2.—The report of the republican minority of the ways and means committee against the bill placing cotton bagging, cotton ties and machinery for manufacturing the same upon the free list has been prepared by Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, and filed with the committee.

Of cotton bagging the report says: "This manufacture was created by a protective tariff policy and is dependent upon the same for its preservation, because of the difference between the rates of wages paid here and abroad and for other reasons. It is perfectly apparent that any reduction of the duty below protection point would be a serious blow to the laborers of this country in this industry. There are now invested in this industry in this country over $8,000,000. There are 16 mills in the United States, conducting business independently of each other, and in full competition. There is no combination to dominate the product or fix prices, or for any other purposes, between them. The policy of protection to the cotton bagging industry has resulted in building up American manufactures sufficient in extent to supply the home market, thus benefiting home capital and home labor, and at the same time has lowered the prices to the consumer. Why now change that policy? To drive our own manufacturers from the field is to give the domination of our markets to foreign manufacturers, who will then dictate prices at will. To encourage home manufacture is to encourage competition as experience shows, and thus to reduce prices to a minimum."

In regard to cotton ties the report says: "The measure recommended by the majority proposes to admit cotton ties free, but to preserve the duty on 'barrel hoops of iron or steel.' No reason has been give for making such a distinction, and it is difficult to imagine any, as it is to imagine why either should be put on the free list."

"Why a crude article of iron or steel should be subject to duty and a more finished product, of which the crude article is the raw material, should come in free is one of those things difficult to understand. Such an illogical proposition could only come from the advocates of a policy which would deal in spots with a great measure of legislation, which, whether it be good or bad, is at least built consistently upon a plan. Nothing more mischievous can be conceived, and not even the necessity of making laws for the campaigning purposes of the democratic party, irrespective of the needs of the country, can justify such action.

"Nor will the proposed measure result in the admission free of cotton ties only. Under the language of the proposed law, hoop or band iron or steel of any and all sizes, up to the dimensions of wagon tires, and even to the kind of iron or steel that might be made into blooms, will come in without payment of duty."

The minority also combats the proposition to place machinery for manufacturing cotton tires and cotton bagging on the free list.

"No reason has been suggested by the majority," the report says, "for providing one kind of legislation for machinery relating to the cotton industry and another for all kinds of machinery; and we are satisfied therefore to dismiss this part of the bill with the remark only that it is of a piece with what seems to be the mischievous policy of the majority, to deal with tariff legislation in spots and without

M'DINGLE'S SCHEME

To Bring Frozen Natural Gas to Toledo.

An Indiana Man Puts the Idea Into His Head—His Friend Sellers Would Say There's Millions in It.

An Indiana man is authority for the following:

"A service line of natural gas had frozen and the joint of pipe was detached. The workmen pounded on the pipe and a cylinder of ice about a foot in length dropped out. One of the men picked it up and applied a match and the ice burned like a torch."

"What do you think of that?" said Mr. McDingle to a Bee. "Grand, ain't it! Think of what it means. Away with the pipe line, away with pumping gas, away with everything; just let the gas flow into a tank of water, freeze the whole thing, cut it up, load it on cars and ship it to Toledo just flying. What's the matter with the scheme? Nothing; it's as plain as the nose on your face. Now you've got your frozen gas here, how do you use it? How? Why, the simplest thing in the world. Break it up and put it in your grate; no mixers; no nothing; just light it; burns like coal, only better. Don't see how? Easy enough—easy enough. Immediately the gas, absorbed by the ice, is ignited, the heat of the flame melts the ice, frees the elements of water, hydrogen and oxygen from their chemical union, the gas burns, the hydrogen burns, the oxygen helps along the cumbustion, and there you are. No dust, no ashes, nothing—just heat. Greatest thing ever thought of. As my esteemed friend Sellers would say, 'there's millions in it, there's millions in it.'"

And Mr. McDingle is right, possibly.

SECURED HER VERDICT.

Insurance Company Made to Pay Up.

Mrs. Brobst Secured a Judgment Against the National Life Insurance Company for $2,300.

Norwalk, March 2.—(Special)—Mrs. Blanche Brobst, mother of Frank Brobst, head clerk at the Hollenden, in Cleveland, brought suit against the National Life Insurance company, of Montpelier, Vermont, to recover the insurance on her husband At W. Brobst, late of this city.

The company claimed Brobst committed suicide and refused to pay. The jury came in late last night in favor of Mrs. Brobst, finding that the dead man died from an accidental overdose of laudanum. The verdict was for $2,000, with interest. The total amount being $2,300.

MADE HIM CONFESS.

Peculiar Methods of Intimidating Prisoners.

Constantinople, March 2.—It is reported that Gorio Chindaroff, the assassin of the Bulgarian agent, D. Vulkovitch, has confessed that he received an offer of 500 piastres from an unknown person, supposed to be a Russian agent, to induce him to kill Dr. Vulkovitch, and other similar jobs were promised in the event of success.

As this confession is said to have been obtained by the use of the bowstring, it is not considered altogether reliable.

ON SUSPICION.

St. Louis, March 2.—A negro, giving the name of Morris Wilson, was arrested at the Union depot this morning on suspicion of being the man who bound and gagged Mr. Charles H. Taylor and criminally assaulted Mrs. Taylor on the street of Sedalia at a late hour last Wednesday night.

WRECKED AND BURNED.

Mason City, Ia., March 2.—There was a wreck on the Milwaukee road early this morning. An extra freight train ran into the rear end of the regular freight going west and smashed and burned up the caboose, injuring H. W. Williams, of Garner, Ia.; William Farley, of Whittlemore, Ia., and M. Berry and Louis McCoy of Mason City, both brakemen.

WAS A FIZZLE.

Excelsior Springs, Mo., March 2.—The meeting of the supreme lodge Knights of Reciprocity, which, it was announced, would fire the first gun of the campaign, resulted in a grand fizzle. Ony four delegates from the many hundreds of lodges were present.

CHILD'S APPEAL TO THE KAISER.

Bernard J. Schmitz, a wealthy farmer of Atchison county, went to Germany last November to visit his old home. Immediately on his arrival in that country he was arrested for deserting the German army thirty years before. The matter was placed in the hands of the United States minister in Germany, but all efforts to secure his release appeared fruitless. Schmitz's eleven-year-old daughter, however, wrote a letter to the emperor of Germany from her home in this county, setting forth in a childish manner the facts in the case and asking for her father's release on his birthday, which came the 28th of last month. The letter reached the monarch the 27th, and he was so touched by it that he issued a pardon for the deserter and he is now on his way home.—Chicago Tribune.

A NEW VIOLINISTE.

A clever young violiniste has created a sensation in London recently, under the name of Mlle. Yrrac, which is, however, obviously her first name spelled backwards. She is of Dutch nationality and comes from the much-frequented watering place, Scheveningen, which is only distant about two and a half miles from The Hague. Determining on a professional career, she proceeded to Brussels, where she devoted herself to music at the Conservatoire, the lady, however, studying the violin with Herr Joachim, and subsequently and for a more lengthened period, with M. Ysayo, the Belgian instrumentalist, who has himself gained so much favor among us, and who has formed a very high opinion of his pupil's artistic capabilities. Mlle. Yrrac, though still very young, has already often appeared in public in Holland, where she has secured a large amount of favor.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY.

What the Leading American Industrial Has Done.

A Hint Which May Prove a Rare Opportunity for Investors.

A rumor became current on the street yesterday that H. H. Warner & Co., one of the most prominent industrial institutions of America, and which has been capitalized in London, was about to double its common stock. The standing and importance of this company in the financial world quite naturally caused this rumor to become the subject of much conversation and comment. The phenomenal success this company has attained, and the large dividends it has paid naturally made the rumor important and justified an investigation. Therefore a representative of this paper called at the New York office of the company, 50 Broadway, in order to ascertain the falsity or verify the truth of the rumor.

Mr. Warner, the president of the company, is a genial gentleman, beaming with kindness and good nature, but he became quite uncommunicative when approached by the writer.

"Mr. Warner, it is reported that H. H. Warner & Co. is about to double its common stock. Is this true?"

"Who told you that?" asked the gentleman in surprise.

"It is a current rumor. Are you prepared to deny it?"

Mr. Warner thought carefully for a few moments and then said:

"Frankly, I think such will be the case. The fact is, the business was capitalized at far too low a figure originally; as its earnings and dividends clearly show. Both earnings and dividends justify three times the present amount of its common stock. I was so convinced of this when it was originally capitalized that I purchased in the open market on the London Stock Exchange a large proportion of the common stock myself at 50 per cent. above its par value, well knowing it was the best investment I could make. Subsequent events have verified my belief."

"May I ask what the earnings have been?"

"Certainly. It is no secret. The first year 6 per cent. was paid upon the debenture bonds, 8 per cent. upon the preferred and 17 1-2 per cent. upon the common stock, while $280,668 was carried to reserve fund. For the second year 6 per cent. was paid upon the debenture bonds, 8 per cent. upon the preferred and 17 1-2 per cent. upon the common stock, while $306,000 of the debenture bonds were cancelled and $100,000 was carried to reserve fund. In round figures the company has earned during the past two years over $1,000,000. The earnings in the United States alone for the seven years prior to its capitalization was about $3,000,000. Thus you see the business since its capitalization has largely increased in earning capacity."

"That is certainly a most wonderful showing. Have you any idea that it will continue?"

"I believe it will double. While the Safe Cure is the most popular remedy in America, Australia, England and Germany to-day, it has never been introduced into France and Belgium, where we are about putting it on the market. Not only that, but we are now manufacturing a baking powder, which, as you are aware, is one of the most profitable of businesses, one concern in this country having made an annual profit of a million dollars for several years. These facts lead me to believe that the earnings of the company can easily be doubled."

"How many common shares are there?"

"Thirty-five thousand of £10 each which amounts in our money to a trifle less than $1,700,000."

"Will every holder of the stock receive double the amount of his stock in the event that this change is effected?"

"Most certainly. That will be a necessity. Quite naturally, the present holders are pleased at this prospect, and are holding on to the stock tenaciously. I, however, am such a believer in the fact that the talking public is the best advertising medium as to be willing to allow a limited number of my shares to be secured by the right parties."

"For what purpose?"

"For the purpose of securing what we call free advertising. Every one holding a few shares of this stock will be a zealous advocate of the merits of the business in which my money is invested. I would not under any circumstances part with more than 10 per cent. of my holdings, which amount to some $2,000,000, and only then to those who are my patrons. I would not consent to sell more than twenty shares of the common or ten shares each of common and preferred stock to any one individual. The rate for these shares is $75 for the common and $50 for the preferred stock, their par value being $50 each."

"And how may they be obtained?"

"By applying to the Central Trust company, No. 54 Wall street, New York; H. H. Warner & Co., Rochester, N. Y., or to my New York city office, No. 50 Broadway. Ten per cent. of the purchase price must accompany the application, when the stock will be issued by the Central Trust company and delivered when the balance is paid."

"And how about accrued dividends?"

"The buyers of these shares participate in the profits of the business from the 31st day of July last, and they will also participate in the doubling of the common stock of the company, in case that is decided upon."

There can be little doubt that this large industrial company, which manufactures Warner's Safe Cure and Warner's Safe Yeast, which is placing a Baking Powder upon the market, and which has its branches in successful operation in nearly every civilized country upon the globe, will soon double its stock. Parties who have felt the beneficial effects of the Safe Cure, and who have seen the thousands of people who have been restored to health by its use, can readily understand the secret of its prosperity. It is founded upon the needs of the public, and hence is popular with the public. Such people, if any there be, who are seeking an investment certainly cannot do better than to secure the few shares of this stock which can now be obtained, and which are more than likely to double in value, besides paying, as they have always paid, most handsome dividends.

WHAT IS IT TO DIE?

To die!
Is it to sleep, unconscious ever,
Where care doth never brood?
To feel no thrill of Hope's endeavor,
Eternal solitude?
Oh, can it be that only dying
Doth change with fearful haste
The fertile mind, so edifying,
Unto a barren waste?

To die!
Is it the touch of lasting beauty
Enduring time assures?
The thrilling stroke of binding duty
That every life endures?
Is it the nuptial knot of nature
That links eternity
Unto the life of every creature
That shares earth's destiny?

To die!
Is it the key to doors where enter
The drifting multitude?
Where all must go, and no dissenter
Can change its aptitude?
Is it the bridge that Hope erected
Across unfathomed deeps?
Is it the gleam that seems reflected
From where sweet glory sleeps?

To die!
Is it to know that life's a blessing
Throughout the coming years?
The cradle berth where love's caressing
Doth wipe away the tears?
Is it the lifting of the shadows,
The rifting of the mist,
Unveiling sweet elysian meadows
Eternity has kissed?

It is stated that there are more priests, monks and nuns in Jerusalem, in proportion to the population, than in any other city in the world. They belong to every nation of Europe and many of Asia, and are of every creed, form of worship and dress.

Solomon's Temple, as described in the scriptures, would not be regarded as a very imposing structure in this day and age of the world. Its length was 107 feet; breadth, 36 feet, and it was 54 feet in height, with a portico or veranda 35 feet long and 18 feet wide.

Twenty-two acres of land are needed to sustain a man on flesh meat, while the same amount of land under wheat feeds forty-two people; under oats, eighty-eight people; under potatoes, Indian corn and rice, 176 people, and under the plaintain, or bread tree, 6,000 people.

Large families are very common among the factory population of Lewiston, Me. Henry McCraw has raised 19 children, of whom 13 are now living. The mother is a healthy woman of 43. Noel Gaudette has raised 19 children, of whom 14 are living—the youngest 11 years of age and the eldest 33.

Although in the ordinary course of things it is the general rule for the heirs apparent to the thrones of Europe to marry as soon as they arrive at a fitting age, the history of England alone affords several exceptions to a practice which is rendered necessary by reasons of the highest policy.

An Ohio woman recently applied to the legislature of that state for permission to change her name from Johanna Fredericka Schwer to Johanna Fredericka Bardenslag. Her petition was granted, and the members gave her to understand that if she ever wanted to get rid of the name they would gladly help her.

Careful observations and comparisons made by scientific Americans prove that the hottest region on earth is on the southwestern coast of Persia, where that country borders on the gulf of the same name. The thermometer never falls below 100 degrees at night, and frequently runs up to 128 degrees in the afternoon.

Miss Mary Jane Squires, aged 80, an eccentric woman who lived alone for many years near Perry Center, N. Y., was found dead in her chair on Tuesday. Four pet cats were in the room, several of them being on her lap and one on each shoulder. The life of the woman was a mystery, for she admitted no one to companionship with her but her cats.

A great deal of misinformation is being circulated as to which is the largest schooner afloat. Everybody on the Atlantic coast thinks that the five-masted schooner Governor Ames is the largest of all fore and afters, but this is a mistake. The largest schooner in the last published government list is the Golden Age, 1,763 tons; built at Abbott's Bridge, O., in 1883, and hailing from Sandusky.

There is mention of steel in very ancient Chinese writings, and an account of the process of manufacture by one writer about 400 B. C., and various descriptive allusions to it, implying a considerable amount of knowledge and power of discrimination in reference to its properties occur at various subsequent periods down to the present day, when it is still a flourishing branch of their manufacture.

St. Valentine was a bishop noted for his gentleness and charity, who was beheaded in Rome in 270 A. D., in the reign of the Emperor Claudius. The day observed in commemoration of him by the early Christian church was February 14. Its celebration was at first entirely religious, but in recognition of the personal character of the saint the rites were such as to pay a tribute to his mildness and charity.

No fewer than 12,000,000 acres of barren land have been made fruitful in the Sahara desert, an enterprise representing perhaps the most remarkable example of irrigation by means of artesian wells that can anywhere be found. Algeria owes to this method of cultivation that it is becoming a most important wine-producing country, as may be gauged from the fact that it sent to France in 1886 10,500,000 gallons.

Compressed air for cleaning cars is used on the Union Pacific railway at its Portland shops. The air, under a pressure of 50 pounds per square inch, is delivered from a flexible hose with a small nozzle, and is used as water would be.

A farmer in Missouri has a half-gallon jar of peach preserves that have kept in perfect condition for more than 30 years. They were recently tested and found to have retained their flavor as well as their looks.

Dr. Billroth estimates that of the casualities at Weisseburg and Worth during the Franco-German war, 80 per cent. of all the wounds were caused by rifles, about 15 per cent. by the large guns, and not quite 5 per cent. by the lance and sword. Mr. Forbes, however, says that the statistics for the whole of the war on the German side prove that over 90 per cent. were due to rifle fire, about 9 per cent. to artillery, and about 1 per cent to cold steel.

An animal growing between the high and low water marks on the Japanese coasts is a mud worm called Sabella. It occupies a hard limy tube of its own making, and gets its food, when the high tide comes up over its hiding place, by thrusting out a head bushy with tentacles, and sucking in currents of water loaded with minute particles of nutriment. Out of this wriggling creature the shore people make soup, which is true vermicelli, not a paste imitation of "little worms!" and is said to taste as badly as it smells.

An underground lake has been discovered three miles from Genesse, Ida. It was found by a well digger. At a depth of 16 feet clear, pure lake water ran out over the surface for a time, then settled back to the earth's level. The most curious part of it is that fish were brought to the surface by the overflow. They have a peculiar appearance and are sightless, indicating that they are underground fish. The spring has attracted much attention, and many farmers in the vicinity fear that their farms will drop into the lake.

Here's a nugget for the superstitious, and Profs. Eliot Coues and Wm. Q. Judge might afford to cease their theosophic wrangling long enough to solve it. On the night of the crisis of the recent illness of the young English prince the great clock of Westminster struck 13 at midnight, according to the testimony of a number of members of a political club in session near the house of commons. The fatal inference is happily frustrated, however, by simple fact. It was Prince George of Wales and not Prince Albert Victor who was critically ill at the time, and Prince George got well.

THE WHISKY TRUST

Trying to Crush Toledo Liquor Dealers.

TheOnly City in the Country to Hold Out.

The Trust Does Everything to Win the Fight, but Has Been Thus Far Unsuccessful.

The whisky trust is mad.

The trust would like to down Toledo, but the Future Great won't be downed, consequently the trust is put out.

The trust is mighty and powerful and thinks that Toledo should bow before it, but thus far Toledoans have shown true grit despite the threats and machinations of the trust magnates.

But why this animosity toward Toledo liquor dealers?

For the simple reason that Toledo is the only city in the whole United States that has held out against the trust.

The trust has its dander up and would crush Toledo dealers out of the business, in fact, they have tried to do so, but the local dealers have stuck together without budging an inch and the consequence is that if anybody is squealing it's the other side.

When the fight against Toledo commenced the trust controlled 90 per cent. of the distilling done in the country. Toledo jobbers were asked to place their orders with the trust, but as they had made contracts with anti-trust concerns, this they refused to do. The houses they were dealing with assured them that they would not sell out to the trust, but this promise was not fulfilled as they were compelled to bend the knee, after holding out several months.

Then the trust sent representatives to Toledo asking the local jobbers to transfer their contracts to the trust. Some of them did so, but they were treated so shabbily that they remonstrated.

It seems the trust demanded that they should pay 5 cents more than the market price, this excess charge to be rebated at the end of every six months, during which period, if they discontinued doing business with the trust they would forfeit the rebate, which in some cases would amount to thousands of dollars.

This worked in some places where the jobbers were afraid of the trust, but not here. The Toledoans stated that they would deal with the trust according to the contracts that had been made.

They met, agreed to hold together and made known their position to the trust and waited for their orders to be filled. At last, their stocks becoming depleted, they shook the trust and placed orders with anti-trust concerns.

The trust then sent representatives here, who stated that they would undersell Toledo houses at every turn if they did not do business with them. They threatened to crush them out of existence.

The trust established agencies, saw the customers of local houses, and sold goods at a losing figure. This has been going on until trust concerns in Cleveland, Detroit and Grand Rapids have entered a protest against its continuance on the ground that in so doing the trust is cutting its own throat.

The holders of trust certificates are in the thing for money, and if the fight goes on and dividends don't come up to their expectations, why they will want to get from under.

The trust has had plenty of trouble; its path has not been one of roses by any means. From controlling 90 per cent. of the business it had dropped to less than 70 per cent.

Toledo jobbers will not give in, and the trust will probably soon find out that this is a good town to let alone.

THE LATE RAILROAD WRECK

Again Brought to Mind by Charles J. Anderson,

The Last Victim, Who is Now in a Fair Way to Complete Recovery—Will Go Home To-Day or To-Morrow.

In the busy pursuits of every day life, current events, however important, soon pass into oblivion, forgotten by the public only to be recalled by some daily occurrence, raking up the past.

That awful railroad disaster which occurred in this city some months ago is still fresh in the memory of Toledo, though as a topic of general conversation it has long since been laid away. However, there are many who will remember the day with horror, and also many who will live in the memory of the slightest detail of that terrible event to the day of their death.

Of the number of strangers who at the time were so suddenly hurled into misfortune, at the very threshold of the city, there is but one left.

The sad fate of eleven of the number is remembered by all, while others more fortunate have been discharged by attending physicians, and returned to their homes.

Mr. Charles Anderson, the last of the hospital patients, is still here, but will leave this evening or to-morrow morning for his home at Riverside, Ill. Mr. Anderson was among those who were most seriously injured, and when taken from the wreck, it was thought that he would die before the hospital was reached. But thanks to a hardy constitution, a determined will and skillful nursing, he battled with his injuries and comes off maimed and scarred but with life and will as animate as ever.

Mr. Anderson is a young man, 28 years of age, six feet tall and doubtless at one time a man of magnificent physique, though now greatly emaciated by the ravages of sickness resulting from his injuries. He has a sallow, unhealthy complexion, though his face bears but slight traces of the scalding he received. There are deep red marks above the eyelids, and one or two small scars about the mouth. His ears are of a purple hue, and are considerably out of shape, there being several small pieces cut out of the edge, in half moon form. His hands are one mass of unsightly livid-hued scars, and he has very little use of either of them as yet. His lungs are still in bad condition, and a racking cough, accompanied by great pain.

A Bee called on Mr. Anderson at the residence of Mrs. Smiley at 719 Cherry street, where he was removed from the hospital not long after the wreck. His greeting was pleasant and cordial, and he talked of his experience in the wreck in a most interesting manner.

"It has been a long fight, but I feel now that I am the victor," he said, settling down in a comfortable rocker, having a copy of the Bee near by, "but you haven't the power to imagine what I have suffered. Sometimes I envied those who had been released from their misery in death. Burned inside and out, maimed and bruised, and conscious all the time, I don't see how I ever lived through it, as I think it over since I have been convalescent. I suppose I have a great many days of pain ahead of me, but that is not to be considered after what I have passed through.

"Again, I don't suppose I suffered as much as some of the others, for I had a big frame and strong constitution, which aided me in resisting the pain. Do you know, that with what I have passed through I shudder when I think of those poor, weak children and women, and what awful agony they must have endured before they died. I never will forget the slightest detail of that affair, and the agonizing shrieks of those women and children will always ring in my ears.

"When the crash came I was sitting four seats from the rear end of the coach, and the force of the collision threw me four seats ahead. The locomotive forced its way to about the middle of the coach, when the steam chest burst and the scalding steam began to fill the coach. I was laying alongside of this steam chest, and if it had not been for my heavy overcoat and muffler, I never would have escaped death. In falling I became fastened between two seats, and when I discovered this I made up my mind to die. However, I made an effort to extricate myself and succeeded. I then began to knock out the windows. I broke on and tried to get out, but some object, I don't know what it was, barred my way. I tried another with the same result. I was gradually becoming overpowered by the intense heat, but resolved to make another effort. I then kicked out a third window and plunged into it, and fell to the ground outside safe from further injury.

"I retained my senses, however, and was conscious when they carried me into the Pullman car. The doctor gave me two injections of morphine before operating on my hands, which were badly cut, but the drug never affected me, and I suffered terrible agony all the while.

"From the hospital I was removed here and taken under the motherly care of Mrs. Smiley. My ears were burned to a crisp, and all the skin came off my face. While I am greatly improved, I have never yet been exposed to the weather, and don't know what effect it will have on my lungs. All in all, I have a great deal to be thankful for. I am able to be about, with chances of recovery in my favor. For this I have to thank Mrs. Smiley, whose wonderful nursing has been more to me than medicine.

I leave to-morrow, if the weather will permit, for Chicago, where I am employed by the C., B. & Q. railroad as freight solicitor, and then to my home at Riverside."

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Niobe at Wheeler's To-Morrow Evening.

Paul Kauvar to Finish the Week—Bernhardt Will Present La Tosca—Elsie Leslie.

Alan Dale in the New York Evening World speaks as follows of Niobe, which will be presented at Wheeler's to-morrow evening:

"Niobe is simply a treat, a comedy to gush about, and to festoon with the very best and purest kind of laughter. * * * It is the kind of comedy that must exert a beneficial effect upon the community. I guarantee that nobody can see it without laughter. * * * There is no single vestige of fault about Niobe. * * * The mirth springs from the most irresistibly funny situations, and it springs naturally with the grace of a Carmencita. * * * Should fill the house for an entire season. * * * Niobe is simply a fountain of risibility from beginning to end. * * * As I left the Bijou last night I promised myself one thing: to see Niobe again."

Paul Kauvar.

There are few plays of the absorbing interest of Paul Kauvar. It catches the attention before the first act is half through, and there is no let-up to the end. There are magnificent possibilities in it for the display of talent, and with the elaborate scenery necessary to its production, the reason for its continued hold on the public is easily accounted for. Edward L. Snader gives a strong conception of the character of Paul. E. R. Spencer as the Marquis de Vaux, is quite equal to his work, and Arthur G. Smith's Duc de Beaumont is not without conscientious merit. The rest of the cast, including Margaret Ivanilli's vigorous control of her husband, may be said to be excellent.

Paul Kauvar will be presented at Wheeler's Friday and Saturday.

Elsie Leslie.

"The Prince and the Pauper," with Elsie Leslie in the dual roles, will be the attraction at Wheeler's next Monday and Tuesday, March 7 and 8. The little girl is said to be a wonder. Her part in this play is longer than that of Hamlet and calls for such genuine acting as to put it far beyond the power of merely precocious children. The play is one of the imagination, it is true, but it possesses the true poetic spirit, and such a semblance of reality that it never seems unnatural. It is equally interesting to grown people who are tired of conventional dramas, and children who have never witnessed a play of any kind.

Will Present "La Tosca."

Mme. Bernhardt has selected "La Tosca" for production in this city March 11. It is the hardest working role in the repertoire of the divine Sara, and the play requires so much special scenery and appointments, that a heavy extra expense is incurred in its production here. But the actress is gracious, and as a consequence, her audience will see the strongest play ever written by the greatest living playwright, and by far the greatest living actress of the day.

BEST OF ALL.

To cleanse the system in a gentle and truly beneficial manner, when the springtime comes, use the true and perfect remedy, Syrup of Figs. One bottle will answer for all the family and costs only 50 cents; the large size $1. Try it and be pleased. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

NEW MINISTRY.

Athens, March 2.—The Delyannis ministry has resigned and M. Tricoupis has been summoned to form a new cabinet. The trouble grows out of the difficulty in floating a new loan.

Garfield tea is the tired housewife's best friend, freeing the body from aches and pains, creating a buoyancy of spirits and lovely complexion.

BOSTON LADIES IN BURNT CORK

The ladies who are interested in the Helping Hand Home for Working Girls are arranging for a novel entertainment in aid of the institution, and already the proposal has been so well received that its success seems completely assured. The idea of having a minstrel entertainment in which the performers are lady amateurs is not entirely new, for other places—places not so much devoted to the earnest side of life as Boston—have already tried the amusing scheme, and the fair ones who have temporarily sacrificed their complexions to the cause of charity have nobly helped to furnish the funds for philanthropy. The ladies of Boston, whom outsiders suppose to be very "blue" will—or at least a part of them—appear black for once. The names of these are not announced.

The entertainment is announced for Wednesday evening, February 24, in Tremont Temple. Tickets, at $1 each, may be procured from the ladies of the society or from Miss Ames, 1 Beacon street, room 72. Miss Ames has already received many checks from those anxious not to "get left" in the rush for tickets.—Boston Journal.

WHAT TO TEACH A DAUGHTER.

That work is worthy always when it is well done.

That the value of money is just the good it will do in life, but that she ought to know and appreciate this value.

That the man who wishes to marry her is the one who tells her so and is willing to work for her, and not the one who whispers silly love speeches, and forgets that men cease to be men when they have no object in life.

Teach her to think well before she says no or yes, but to mean it when she does.

Teach her to avoid men who speak lightly of any of the great duties of life.

Teach her that her own room is her nest, and that to make it sweet and attractive is a duty as well as a pleasure.

Teach her to be a woman—self-respecting, honest, loving and kind, and then you will have a daughter who will be a pleasure to you always, and whose days will be long and joyous in the land which the Lord hath given her.

ON THE WAY TO PARADISE.

Let us hope that the people who habitually disregard their health will reach that desirable place, and avoid the locality which is less desirable as an eternal residence on account of the heat and surroundings generally. But while we tarry in this vale of tears, why tears, why should we voluntarily endure the tortures of dyspepsia when a systematic use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will rid us of the atrocious malady which—unless physicians are very much at fault—tends to shorten the term of our existence. Heartburn, biliousness, constipation almost always accompany this complaint and are symptomatic of it. These are all extinguished by the Bitters, which also conquers completely malaria, rheumatism, nervousness and debility. Since the appearance of "la grippe" it has shown a singular mastery over this formidable complaint that has carried off so many of our brightest and best.

AN INDIANAPOLIS BLAZE.

Female Reform School Completely Destroyed.

Not a Life Was Lost and None of the Inmates Seemed to Want to Escape.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 2.—The State Woman's Reform School for Girls burned here last night. The building was entirely destroyed. The fire was discovered a few minutes after supper in the laundry of the reform department. Julia Kerr, one of the trusty inmates, and the day watchman discovered smoke issuing from the room almost simultaneously, one from the inside of the institution and the other from without.

The Kerr girl hastily informed one of the guards that the laundry room was ablaze and the watchman ran to the engine room, where he summoned the aid of the engineer and day watchman.

These with the fire apparatus at hand succeeded, as they supposed, in quenching the fire when the hose broke. Before it could be mended the flames burst out again and rapidly spread. The prison department was the last to go and the noise of the crashing of the iron coops as the supports gave way was heard for half a mile from the burning buildings.

The institution was situated in the center of a five-acre field on the eastern edge of the city. It was a model prison and one of the most noted in the country. When the fire was first discovered Miss Kelley, the superintendent, ordered the inmates of the reform department in the yards.

These were taken back when the fire was supposed to be under perfect control. Upon the discovery that the flames had communicated to the stairway and up to the roof, the girls were once more ordered to the yards and were guarded by a half dozen attendants.

In this portion of the institution there were 157 inmates. From those confined in the prison department the most trouble was anticipated by the officers.

Miss Kelly went into the hallway and in a loud tone called the attention of the prisoners that the building was on fire. "I am going to unlock these cells, but I want you to promise me that you will stand by me and not one attempt to escape."

The women with one voice promised this and the doors were opened. The 53 prisoners hastily followed Miss Kelly through the hallways and to the grounds, where they were placed in charge of the attendants. Of the inmates of this department there are eight who have been sentenced for life and half a dozen or more for long terms. Others were in on minor charges of grand and petit larceny and several for abduction.

So far as known, none of the prisoners made any attempt to escape, though some of the reform girls were discovered during the evening roaming about the streets of the city, and they were sent to the police station.

The fire was of incendiary origin; three girls, Imogene Thompson, Mary Stevens and Lydia Kinsley, it is claimed by other inmates having formed a conspiracy to free themselves in this way, if possible, by creating a stampede.

The prisoners and other inmates will be confined in the various other state institutions.

The loss will exceed $300,000, with an insurance of but $51,000.

A FACE IN A PEBBLE.

The Wonderful Human Likeness in a Stone Found Near Oberammergau.

The Oberammergau stone, one of the most curious freaks of nature that has ever been found, will be placed on exhibition at the Woman's Industrial Exchange, beginning Friday. It was accidentally found in a small fragment of red limestone which was taken from the roadway leading to the cross on the summit of the Kofelspitze, a mountain overhanging the village of Oberammergau. The stone was shown yesterday at the Sun office, and the manner of its finding was thus described by Mrs. Oliver T. Bacon: "The day after witnessing the 'Passion Play' at Oberammergau, September 13, 1880, with a friend, I climbed almost to the symbol of our Savior's suffering. As a memento of the place I picked up two small pebbles, which remained for two weeks in my pocket. With pieces of carved wood and other curios these fragments of rock were labeled as part of a museum, designed for the Young Men's library, Atlanta, Ga., of which my son has been a life member. In re-labeling, eight years after, November 13, 1888, this stone chanced to be turned in a certain angle. Instantly a face, full of sorrow, was revealed. During my recent travels in France, Norway, Russia and other places, many artists were impressed with the phenomenon, though no thought occurred of exhibiting it. To assist in paying for the organ of a summer church it was first placed before the public." Since then it has been exhibited in New York and a number of other places, creating widespread interest and wonderment. Noted geologists have examined the pebble and have declared its singular formation to be the result purely of natural fracture and abrasion, a "dew-wrought" face, as the owner has characterized it, and a most remarkable example of accidental resemblance. The material is limestone veined with chert, and the pebble is about an inch in length. Many of those who have seen it say that they have found in it a touching reproduction of their conception of the face of Christ, and this, combined with the curious circumstances connected with its finding, has added to the interest of the strange bit of stone. The board of lady managers of the World's Columbia commission have communicated with Mrs. Bacon with a view to having the pebble exhibited at the great fair.—Baltimore Sun.

A COINCIDENCE.

They had been married about three weeks, when he ventured to remark: "You don't cook as well as my first wife did." "Your first wife? I never knew you were married before." "Oh, yes. Some fifteen years ago. We only lived together about a year. By the way, my name was Skimmerhorn then, instead of Muxby. You see, I took the name of Muxby after Uncle Jim Muxby left me his money." "What was her name?" "Simpson. Jane Maria Ann Simpson." "Why, that was me."—Indianapolis Journal.

ELINE VERE.

The First Novel of the Promised Holland Books.

The New Volume of Lectures by Thomas Carlyle—Manual of French Literature—Choice of Books.

"Eline Vere," by Louis Couperus, is the first in the Holland fiction series published by the Appleton house, N. Y. It is translated by J. T. Grein, with an introduction by Edmund Gosse. In the preface is sketched the "Dutch Sensitivists," to the casual student of literature a paradoxical term which Mr. Gosse explains. He says there has been a revolution in the Dutch taste during the last six or seven years, and there exists at this moment a group of young writers, in the twenties and thirties, who exhibit a violent zeal for literature, a determination to break away from "the sleepy Dutch authorship of the last forty years," and every promising young author in Holland has joined the guild. The statement that certain French authors, as Flaubert and Goncourt have fascinated them, will be accepted upon perusal of the book in hand, written by one of the youngest of this corps of writers. Louis Marie Anne Couperus. The name is certainly more French than Dutch, but its owner was born in the Hague, though of what ancestry it is not stated. He is 29 years old, and eight years ago published a volume of verses. But, says Mr. Gosse, "every one allows that he succeeds better in prose." Next to Eline Vere, his "Noodlot" (literally, Fate or Destiny), will be translated.

That reviewers and readers will differ widely in their criticisms is to be anticipated. The disagreement of critics is the cheer and comfort of aspiring authors. M. Couperus is enthusiastically received in his own country as one (to quote Mr. Gosse) "from whom much is expected." And that is right. The author's work is promising, but by present showing is crude, scattered, imitative and unformed. In the story of Eline there are a dozen superfluous characters whom the reader supposes to be necessary to the story, so much of them is given in inconsequential conversations, but as they drop out without having accomplished anything beyond very commonplace chatter, one feels vexed at the parley with them. Eline, is simply a hot tempered, otherwise limp character. There is a degree of consistency in her love of beautiful things and her dreamy unreasonableness inherited from her artist father, but the theme of the attempted character study is: a nature too fickle and unreliable to know her own heart towards her own lovers, to send them from her with scorn, to be repented and bemoaned the next moment. The first impression is that she is going to fall in love with the husband of her sister Betsy; then there's Paul, then Fabrice, then Otto, whom she admires for his strength and calmness and the next moment hates because she cannot move him to a frenzy of either love or jealousy; then flabby Vincent for whom Otto is banished but who does not love her and goes to America and is straightway forgotten, and at last Lawrence St. Clare, the New Yorker who comes home to Holland with Vincent, and who becomes her very oddly-behaved lover, and the reader at last believes Eline will be married and the story end, but she refuses to trust herself to promise him because she thinks she still loves Otto and he is yet in the world and unmarried. He is to return in five months to find what state of mind she is in. The story is designed to be Frenchy, the heroine capricious and the denouement tragic. The grave and amusing American lover with his beard sweeping his noble breast, with his ill manners and imperious ways, will be something of a novelty to his countrymen and women.

The climax of the last act shows Eline "struggling despairingly between the agony of death and a calm resignation." This is well enough, but immediately she "covers Otto's portrait with kisses, places it in her mouth despairingly without the strength left her to tear it up or to destroy it in any other way than by swallowing it," the result being described thus:—"whilst a trembling gasp of breath shook through her whole frame, she chewed, chewed the discarded proof of the portrait—of the portrait of Otto."

Here is a hint for a novel situation for writers of stage tragedies. While the book contains promise for future work, the discriminating critic can scarcely give it further praise. If one wants to read French novels, there are plenty of good ones and plenty of very bad ones. The American reader will be disappointed that a story by a Holland fictionist has so little of the character, conversation, scenery and life of Holland in it. The book is worthy perusal as a study of effort and as a specimen of the young school of "Dutch Sensitivists." Tastefully printed and bound in stiff linen covers; for sale in Toledo by Brown, Eager & Hull.

A treasure trove is a volume of hitherto unpublished essays on English Literature, by Thomas Carlyle. These were delivered in London in 1838 and quite full reports were made of them by a young barrister. Mr. Thomas Chrisholm Anstey. The manuscript in Mr. Anstey's handwriting is still in existence, and comparison with two other reports of the same proves that long hand reporting was expertly done in those days. The reason Carlyle did not publish these lectures himself was doubtless that he dreaded the labor of preparing them for the press. Then his literary fame was at its height and his mind was full of literary ideas and plans for more work. These he could edit at any time, but the older a roll of manuscript becomes, the more the author is loth to touch it. Writers less than Carlyle know this to be true. It is said "these lectures treat less of literature than of the causes of literature, its course and its significance." A new book by Carlyle whatever its treatment of whatever topic is something to be thankful for. As its editor, J. Reay Greene, says: "We ought surely to greet with pleasure every combination of sincerity, ability and amiability, for with all Carlyle's prejudices and all his denunciations of men and things, we find him capable of hope; we feel that he sympathizes with his fellow-creatures."

Prof. Demmon's idea, expressed in his first lecture in the English Literature course—to make oneself acquainted with the personality of the author, with the influences that surrounded him, and to love the study of his topic and its treatment—are essentials to a knowledge and thorough enjoyment of his work. Carlyle's lectures were divided into 12, three in the first period, covering literature in general and early writers down to Tacitus; five in the second period, carrying the review as far as Milton; and four in the third period, which included an analysis of Goethe. Of the ninth lecture, the first in the third period, no record exists. Mr. Anstey having made no report of this lecture.

The criticisms of men and their works are thoroughly Carlylean, and any reader familiar with his style must realize the faithfulness of the reporter and the careful work of the editor. Published in handsome form by Chas. Scribner's Sons, New York. Price $1. For sale in Toledo by Brown, Eager & Hull.

The Literature of France, by H. G. Keene, from the same publishers, is one of the University Extension manuals. It is designed as a guide to the student through the evolution of French literary history from the beginning of the nation to a time immediately preceding our own. Personal criticism is not intruded, but in the preface the author confesses not to have concealed his admiration of the language and "the consummate exquisiteness of some of its higher products." Poetry and prose production are given about equal consideration. The book is admirable in its classification and its discriminating selections. The authors, taken in chronological order, are entertainingly discussed, together with their surroundings and circumstances so far as these influenced their work. The student of French literature can ask nothing better than this manual. Price $1, by Brown, Eager & Hull.

Charles F. Richardson's "Choice of Books" is published by John Alden, New York, in the Elzevir library, bound in blue and gold, stiff cloth covers. The reading habit, what books to read, the cultivation of a taste for books, the art of skipping, how to read periodicals, and what books to own, are the subject matter of some of the chapters. The little volume is brimful of good things, both of Mr. Richardson's own and of authors quoted, and the advice given is good, yesterday, today, and so long as books shall last. Sold by Brown, Eager & Hull.

INTO A WORK TRAIN.

Frightful Crash on a Western Road.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 2.—The bodies of seven mechanics employed in the car shops of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road at West Milwaukee, are lying in the morgue mute witnesses to the criminal carelessness of a switchman.

They had just finished their day's work yesterday in the shops of the company and were returning to their homes in the city on what is known as the "workman's train" together with about 175 or 200 others who were crowded into the coaches.

The train is due at a point near the Union depot at 4:25 o'clock in the winter months, as is also the Watertown local, a passenger train run for the accommodation of suburban residents. The workmen's train was running on a parallel track when the "local" reached Eighteenth street it ran in upon the switch of a short track connecting the parallel tracks.

The trains were running side by side as the local sped in on the little cross track. Emil Bartel, switchman, had left the switch open. The result was that the local running at the rate of 14 miles an hour, sped swiftly into the middle coach of the workmen's train, and before the engineer could reverse his machine he had crashed into the center of the slowly moving train load of mechanics.

The occupants of the coach had no warning of the impending danger and in an instant they were being ground between the sides of the overturned car and the cindercovered roadbed. The car was demolished and two others overturned.

Patrol wagons and ambulances were soon at hand, and in half an hour all had been removed to the morgue.

Bartel disappeared, but was arrested at 8 o'clock last evening.

The identified thus far are:

Stanislaus Kataaenski, John Grunskowski, Paul Wagner, Robert Wiese.

The first three are married and the latter single.

From Headquarters.

Chicago, March 2.—General Manager Earling of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul made the following statement of the facts as received at the company's headquarters:

The Watertown accommodation train bound for Milwaukee at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, ran through an open switch in the Milwaukee yard, striking a shop employes' train moving in the same direction on the third track. Seven employes in the shop train who attempted to get out of the coach windows were caught under the overturned coach and killed. One other was badly injured. The switch had been left open by a switching crew a moment before. Bartel, foreman of the crew, has given himself up to the Milwaukee police.

The names of the killed are as follows: Paul Wagner, Steve Bobate, John Grusidkowski, Robert Wiese, and three not yet identified.

Frank Preiss, single; Joseph Duerringer, single; John F. Duesing, married.

Preiss' head was severed from the body. All were terribly mutilated.

SOMETHING YOU NEED.

If you are sick and have not been helped why do you not write a full description of your case to the great specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. Fourteenth street, New York, known everywhere as the discoverer of Dr. Greene's Nervura, and who is without doubt the most successful physician in the cure of all long-standing complaints?

Consultation in all cases is entirely free, personally or by mail. Thousands consult him by letter, and he returns an answer to all perfectly explaining their diseases, giving advice, etc., without charge.

His success in curing diseases by his marvellous vegetable remedies is simply wonderful, and he has made a specialty of the cure of persons at a distance through letter correspondence and treatment. In this manner thousands of people have been and thousands more are being cured, and we should advise you, if you desire a sure cure from your disease, to immediately write him all about your case. It will cost you nothing to get his very valuable advice.

DRIVEN TO DESPERATION

The Inhabitants of the Volga Country

Forced to Commit Robbery and Murder

In Order to Gain Food and Money to Keep Life in Their Wretched Bodies—Terrible Scenes.

London, March 2.—The English special correspondent who is traveling in the famine districts of Russia, writes from Saratov that crimes of violence in the valley of the Volga are of frequent occurrence.

Clergymen's houses have been robbed and the bodies of murdered men are found in the highroads. The correspondent was warned of the dangers of traveling about the country, and he seldom drove at night.

Caravans of merchandise are escorted by an armed force. The correspondent says that while he was sleighing in the Volga one evening he was tracked for half an hour by a ragged, ill-looking peasant, armed with a musket and cudgel.

It was his intention to signal the approach of the correspondent to an ambush prepared by robbers who infest both sides of the Volga.

The correspondent add that villages which were prosperous in 1886, are now plunged into the deepest misery, and the population has been decimated.

In one village 2,765 of its 7,656 peasants have migrated. Of those remaining 1,250 are dependent upon charity. In three months the people of this village have lost 4,038 head of live stock. They are indebted to the state in the sum of 72,380 roubles. Similar conditions prevail in other villages.

Forty thousand acres of land are idle in the province of Samara, owing to a lack of seed with which to plant this area. A large number of the German colonists live in holes in the earth for warmth. They eat bread made of wild hemp and the carcasses of horses. This diet causes severe, often fatal, nausea. The famine is changing the peasants into wild beasts. In one case a man attempted to ravage his daughter because she had not been successful in begging. A loaf of bread was given to a peasant who began to devour it with the avidity of a famished wolf. While he was in the act of gulping down the bread he fell into a fit.

Speaking of the country, the correspondent says the land in the basin of the Volga is exhausted and the climate is changing. He suggests that 100,000 of the German colonists be assisted to emigrate to Canada and the United States. They are a fine race, he says, and would make successful colonists in those countries.

John Heitman, living near Munster, Montgomery county, attempted to cross the ice on the Laramie reservoir, broke through and was drowned.

Cucumber and
Elder Flower Cream
Is not a cosmetic in the sence in which the term is popularly used, but permanently beautifies. It creates a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind and prevents sunburn and freckles, and blackheads will never come while you use it. It cleanses the face far better than soap and water, nourishes and builds up the skin tissues and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of skin that you had when a little girl. Every lady, young or old, ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady and that permanently. It contains no acid, powder or alkali and is as harmless as dew and as nourishing to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00. Ask your druggist for it.

THE ANTI-SUB-TREASURYITES.

A Divided Sentiment Among Its Supporters.

Jackson, Miss., March 2.—Representative McAllister, chairman of the national committee of the anti-sub-treasury alliance was this morning asked what he thought of the recent labor conference at St. Louis, and its bearing upon the politics of the south. He said:

"The pretended opposition of the southern delegates to the third party movement was the merest sham. They were all in full sympathy with it, possibly with the exception of Livingston, of Georgia, who is in doubt as to whether his state is ripe for the movement.

"There is no question but that the subtreasury element in the southern alliance will join the movement. The third partyites adopted the Ocala platform and this element believes their political salvation depends upon the success of the subtreasury and land loan schemes.

"The movement is fraught with danger to democrats in several southern states, notably in North Carolina, Alabama and Louisiana. A fusion of this element with the republicans would seriously imperil democratic success. Republican managers recognize the waning fortunes of their party in the northwest growing out of this movement, and will eagerly embrace any fusion in the south as an offset.

"Our committee will issue a call during this month for a national convention to resist the sub-treasury and other party schemes."

That at last a cure has been found for Bronchitis, Consumption, weak, sensitive or sore lungs. For these complaints innumerable remedies have been tried, but none heretofore have proved successful. The unrivalled success which attends the use of Rough on Coughs places it at the head of the front rank of Pulmonary remedies. Though a new remedy, cures have already been effected of cases thought beyond reach of any possible remedy. Reports of absolute cure of cases believed utterly hopeless are received daily. 50c. and $1.

Great Triumph.

The universal success of Rough on Coughs, in Consumption, Coughs, Bronchitis and Pulmonary diseases, is attracting notice throughout the country. It is without question a remarkable preparation, and though recently introduced, has given abundant evidence of peculiar efficacy in controlling Pulmonary diseases. Cures of severest forms of long standing Throat and Lung diseases reported every day. Relief is immediate and certain.

Important Discovery.

Many years elapsed since the discovery of a remedy so important to the people as that of Rough on Coughs, a new and successful remedy in the treatment of Consumption, Bronchitis, Chronic Coughs and all Pulmonary diseases. The uniform certainty of its beneficial effects, its peculiar adaptability and specific effects upon the Throat and Lungs in disease, proves it the long-desired panacea for a class of diseases heretofore considered incurable. All sufferers are confidentially requested to give it a trial. 50c. and $1.00 bottles. At Druggists. Large size, express prepaid, on receipt of $1. E. S. Wells, Jersey City, N. J.

DO YOU WANT GOLD?
Cripple Creek is not a health resort. It is a wealth resort. Quite a difference! Location, near Pike's Peak, in Colorado. Gold—bright, yellow gold, is found at grass roots and in the rock formation.
Reliable experts claim this is to-day the richest camp in Colorado. Assays average $100 per ton, and have run as high as $5,000. One hundred people a day are now rushing to Fremont, chief town of the district.
The chance of a life-time is worth looking after!
You can get there quickly and comfortably by taking Santa Fe Route. Only line with no change of cars from Chicago, Kansas City and other principal cities to Florissant, nearest railroad station, with daily stages to Fremont.

THE BELLS OF SHANDON.

With deep affection and recollection
I often think of those Shandon bells,
Whose sound so wild would, in days of childhood,
Fling 'round my cradle their magic spells;
On this I ponder, where'er I wander,
And thus grow fonder, sweet Cork, of thee,
With thy bells of Shandon
That sound so grand on
The pleasant waters of the river Lee.

I've heard bells chiming full many a clime in,
Tolling sublime in cathedral shrine,
While at a glib rate brass tongues would vibrate
But all their music spoke naught like thine,
For memory dwelling on each proud swelling
Of thy belfry knelling its bold notes free,
Made the bells of Shandon
Sound far more grand on
The pleasant waters of the river Lee.

I've heard bells tolling "Old Adrian's Mole in,"
Their thunder rolling from the vatican,
And cymbals glori'us, swinging uproarious
In the gorgeous turrets of "Notre Dame,"
But thy sounds were sweeter than the dome of Peter
Flings o'er the Tiber, pealing solemnly.
Oh! the bells of Shandon
Sound far more grand on
The pleasant waters of the river Lee.

There's a bell in Moscow while on tower and Kiosko,
In St. Sophia, the Turkman gets
And loud in air, calls men to prayer,
From the tapering summit of tall minarets;
Such empty Phantom, I freely grant them,
But there's an anthem more dear to me,
'Tis the bells of Shandon
That sound so grand on
The pleasant waters of the river Lee.

THE PROFESSOR'S FAD.

Everbody knew that Professor John Smithers Toodlewinker could afford to buy all the rubber bands he chose, still it was a settled fact that nothing pleased him so much as finding them or even stealing them off parcels on the sly, and he always kept the little pocket on the inside of his coat filled with rubber bands secured in this way.

This was well known among the students, some of them even saying he would hook a rubber band off a testament, and it was a regular joke with them to ask him for one just to see the woebegone look come over his face; for rather than part with one of his precious bands he would help on a lesson, or even excuse you altogether, and the college journal had squibs of the professor's fad every month.

One clear, beautiful day in January the professor was walking smartly up the Beacon street mall, whistling cheerily and observing everything as was his wont. He felt very happy, for that morning a friend had told him that there was a tree on the common that the Autocrat had immortalized in a single line, and that was very rare.

First—It had been transplanted from the Gardner Green estate on Pemberton Hill some years before, therefore it recalled memories of old Boston, on which the professor was a profound student.

Second—It was the Ginkgo bilboa, of the thin, sparsely foliaged character, a native of Asia, the trees of which the professor was just then deeply interested in, and—

Thirdly, and lastly—It was the only specimen of its kind in the east, probably in the country, which of course made it vastly more valuable.

Well, he had seen it; of course it being winter there was no foliage, but he could imagine that till summer came, and he had stood and gazed lovingly at it, and viewed it from the long path and the mall and from all sides thoroughly, and had even cut off a piece of bark to examine with the microscope when he thought nobody was in sight; continuing up the hill, he had just got it in his notebook and was putting the broad rubber band about it, when, chancing to look across the street, he caught the pretty girl who occupies the window of the 'infants' outfitting and furnishing store" the main part of the day laughing at him.

With an assumption of dignity he did not feel, he turned about and snapped it on, when—horror! it broke—the only handsome band he possessed, and he had stolen it from Fred De Jones, one of his young men, only the day before. With a groan, he slipped the book into his pocket, and mounting the stairs to the street, walked back down the hill.

In thinking of the tree, he soon forgot the band, and, as we said, was whistling cheerily, etc., when he noticed quite a crowd of little children on the opposite side of the street. They were evidently Back Bay children out to recess from one of the private schools in that vicinity, as they were in charge of two ladies, evidently teachers, one of whom was already half way across the street with some of them.

She was a little dot of a lady, with an enormous cinnamon-bear boa about her throat, and a very timid, shrinking manner. She was trying to get her detachment out of the way of a large coal team, which didn't seem disposed to stop, and at the same time hold a muff, a parcel done up in a red napkin, and a pocketbook with a wide elastic about it.

The professor looked just in time to see her drop the pocketbook, and immediately ran out and held up the horses, despite the maledictions of the driver, who didn't want to stop on the steep up-grade, until both squads of children had crossed, then, picking up the pocketbook, he started to overtake them.

They were already on the mall, when at that moment he noticed the rubber band. Stealthily pulling it off he advanced his six-foot-one of humanity gracefully, and inquired if she had not dropped it. "Why, yes, Helen," said the tall lady, "how very careless of you." Poor Miss Helen blushed a rosy red, and in her confusion dropped the parcel in the red napkin. The professor handed her the pocketbook, at the same time skilfully passing the beautiful rubber band about his wrist, and then gallantly made a clutch at the parcel lying on the snow. Man-like he got it by the corner, spilling the contents in every direction. "Oh, goody, goody, seedcakes!" cried the little boys and girls, and like common, low-priced creatures, they scrambled for them, dirt or no dirt.

"There, there! Worse and worse! Children—form in line!" said the tall lady looking more severely than ever at the conscious professor, who was stammering apologies and floundering in the snow helping pick the cakes up; then to the helpless Miss Helen, "Big men are hateful, I think—Thank you, sir, we can get along very nicely, now, sir," sharply, as he still persisted in picking them up, "do you imagine for an instant that we would, if starving, eat them once they have lain upon the earth? Be so kind as to pass my friend her pocketbook elastic. Good day, sir! Children, form—" but the professor stopped to hear no more.

About 3 p. m. that same day the professor—his daily duties done—thought he would take a little walk across the Public Garden to clear his brain. He had got well on down the avenue past the Ventome, when he noticed a trim little figure and the fluttering ends of an enormous cinnamon-bear boa just ahead of him. "By Atrides!" (a very powerful oath with the professor), "the little teacher!" Then he did a very unaccountable thing for a proper old, settled-down, dried-up professor—one who, in his 30 years of life, had never given a thought to females but in the abstract. He turned the collar of his ulster up about his ears, pulled his tourist way over his eyes, and putting his hands deep in his pockets watched her with interest.

"What a nice little girl she was; really, she was an awful young teacher, surely not more than 20;" and in his excitement he hurried up so that he almost fell against her—for, on seeing a long, glassy slide made by some of the neighboring children, she stopped suddenly, then taking a little run, slid over it with a gurgle of delight.

No, he'd bet she wasn't more than 18 after hearing that cooing laugh; but he must take care and not get too near to frighten her, so he dropped back again. There she was, sliding again, and down she goes, but up before he could reach her; then giving herself a shake like a child, and looking guiltily at the windows, he heard her murmur: "No more slides, Nelly girl; you must grow steady and solemn like Miss Brankston Hall, and be good." Then, as he retired again, he heard "checkermints," in a subdued, ecstatic tone.

This was mystery to the professor, but he followed breathlessly along.

They had passed the common, and she was crossing Tremont street. A beautiful palace electric car about a mile long got between them, and by the time he had threaded his devious way around it she was nowhere to be seen. "But I know where to find her," thought the observing professor. "She'll be looking at the pictures of the Cadet Theatricals. That's what all the ladies go to see first now; a month ago it was Sandow's up on the place." Right enough, and he bumped up against a tall, rigid figure in front of him.

"Sir, pardon me, but you are exceedingly awkward in your manners!" There he was again, the spectre of the morning. He retired to the corner crushed; but the professor's dander was "gettin' riz." Miss Brankston Hall put him in mind of that beautiful elastic band on Miss Helen's pocketbook. But for her it might have been his ere this; and as he stood there waiting for them to finish their comments on the photos and move on, he nursed his grievance and brooded over it. "It wasn't his fault he had slipped it on his wrist, a trick that had never failed him before. In another moment he would have gracefully retired, and it would now be peacefully encircling his note-book—a pure Para maroon band, too, full a half inch wide, something one didn't strike every day;" and he turned impatiently, more than half bound to ask for it, for the professor's fad, from years of fostering, was so much of a mania that he almost believed the world's supply of rubber bands belonged exclusively to him.

"Ah ha! They were just going. He'd follow them. Perhaps—who could tell?—it might yet be his."

They walked down as far as Boylston street, the tall lady keeping a wary eye on the wretched Professor, then turning into a confectioner's store, spoke cordially to a young man who was buying.

The Professor, watching through the window with eyes only for the rubber band, didn't notice him hurry out; Miss Helen had got her little box of checkermints and had laid her pocketbook on the counter; the Professor leisurely pushed the door open, and, walking in, asked for some of the same; the girl seemed flurried, but he didn't notice, being occupied watching the ladies. Their backs were turned; there lay the pocketbook and the beautiful maroon band beside it; he put out his hand to clutch it, but instead he was caught by the shoulders from behind and whirled round face to face with a policeman.

Miss Helen screamed and almost fainted, but Miss B. Hall, with a proud smile on her firm lips, said "Sir! or rather thrice-hardened wretch—you are at last in the toils of the law, and by my hand! Officer to your duty—drag the miscreant to—to—"

"To Lagrange street, mum?" said the policeman.

"Yes, that's it," said she; "my friend, Miss Helen Jones here, accuses this man of attempting to rob her of her purse—three times to-day he has tried it, but I saved her, ah, this shall be known far and wide over the broad land—'A Boston woman decoys a bold thief to his fate.' This morning he attempted to rob her on the common, and I outwitted him; this afternoon he followed her from Commonwealth avenue to Tremont street, and I foiled him again; then, seeing his boldness, I lured him here, sent into the library for you,—and he is yours."

"Oh, let him go!" cried Miss Helen, tearfully, "he didn't mean anything, I know; perhaps he was hungry. Oh say you were hungry, sir! Do! please do! and perhaps he'll let you go."

"Can't do it, mum; got to take him now; guess I won't call the hurry up, I'll make him walk. Say, what's your name?"

"John Smith—"

"'Nuff said," broke in the policeman, "you're like them all; bet Black's taken your phiz!"

"Oh I say," said the now thoroughly aroused Professor, "I didn't want her money, really—I've got plenty. See!" making a bad matter worse; "all I wanted was the rubber band."

At this there was a loud laugh, and back of the Professor, where a crowd of young men had gathered, a prolonged snicker, which was quickly hushed.

"Your name is John Smith, and you just wanted the rubber band," mimicked the officer, with a grin.

"No," said the Professor, rallying bravely to the charge, "my name is Prof. John Smithers Toddlewinker of the institute, and if the librarian hasn't gone home he'll identify me."

"He won't need to, Professor, we all know you," came a howl from behind; and the shame-faced Professor turned about to see half a dozen of his young men tottering about in various stages of convulsions, and one of them, the one the Professor had seen go out for the officer, and whom he now saw one of his own class—Fred De Jones, stepped up and introduced the equally chagrined ladies as Miss Brankston Hall and his sister, Miss Helen Jones.

The Professor never wrote the masterly dissertation on the Ginkgo bilboa tree, after all; he heard that every true Bostonian, from the grocer's boy to the Listener, knew that there was another and a better specimen of the same tree on the Public Garden; but ask his opinion of fads, and he will probably say, as he looks in a proud, proprietor sort of a way at a certain trim little figure, "Fads—my boy, fads! best thing in the world. Let me tell you it's a poor sort of man who doesn't have a fad."

But he's a little more careful, just the same!—Boston Transcript.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.

Persons with weak lungs—those who are constantly catching cold—should wear an Allcock's Porous Plaster over the chest and another between the shoulder blades during cold weather. Remember they always strengthen and never weaken the part to which they are applied. Do not be deceived by imagining any other plaster like them—they are not—may look it, but looks deceive. Insist always on having Allcock's, the only reliable plaster ever produced.

Robert E. Best, who for more than 40 years had made a business of purchasing the skins of wild animals killed in Ulster, Sullivan, Greene and Delaware counties, New York, and who knew personally every hunter and trapper in that large extent of country, died a few days ago at Rondout, aged 64 years. He had purchased more than 150,000 skins, and accumulated a fortune in their sale.

A SHARP CLERK.

How He Made Half a Million and Got a Wife.

A little over ten years ago a quiet young man of 18 or 19 was engaged by a Wall street firm of brokers as a clerk, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. One day the office boy became ill, and this clerk generously volunteered to take a message to another office for him. In that other office was a pretty typewriter in petticoats. They became interested in each other immediately. Her employers were three of the biggest speculators in the street. They thought nothing of dealing in 50,000 or 100,000 shares a day. They had branch offices up-town and in Baltimore, Chicago, Boston, London, and Paris. This typewriter was also a telegraph operator, and all telegraph orders she filled. She knew just what stocks to go long and short of. So did this quiet young clerk after awhile. Whenever that firm went long of Wabash, Lake Shore, New York Central, Topeka, St. Paul or Manhattan the clerk would take a flyer in that stock in the bucketshops. In a little while he had enough money to buy stock in the stock exchange. Whenever this girl's firm sold stock he was carrying he immediately got from under too. When they bought 5,000 or 10,000 shares of any stock he bought from 100 to 1,000 shares. In no time he was worth $10,000. In less than that he was worth $50,000. Then he stopped making money long enough to marry the girl, and then, keeping the marriage a secret from her firm, he piled up considerably over $500,000. All the time he worked as a clerk for $12 a week. He never lost his head. He never paraded his wealth in fine raiment and generous jewels, but went right on until he had built one of the finest mansions in the suburbs of New Jersey, to which he escorted his Little Blessing. Up to two years ago he was telephoning his orders to his brokers from that mansion and taking life as easy as it took him. I haven't been near Wall street in that time, so I don't know what he is doing in it now.

DOCTORS FRANCE AND OTTMAN,
Formerly of New York, now the Celebrated Examining Physicians of the France Medical and Surgical Institute, Columbus, Ohio, by request of many friends and patients have decided to visit Toledo.
Dr. France, Wednesday, March 16.
Dr. Ottman, Saturday, March 26.
Consultation and Examination Free and Strictly Confidential in the Private Parlor of the Burnett House from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m., one day only.
The Doctors describe the different diseases better than the sick can themselves. It is a wonderful gift for any one to possess. Their diagnostic powers have created wonders throughout the country.
The France Medical and Surgical Institute of Columbus, Ohio, is the only Medical Institute in the State Incorporated with a Capital of $300,000.00.

FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE,
38 & 40 W. Gay St., one block N. of State House, Columbus, O. Incorporated, 1886. Capital, $300,000.
DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession.
CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.
IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.
YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.
DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.
TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.
DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.
MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.
PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.
EPILEPSY, OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.
FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.
Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.
WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.
☞ Cases and correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address, with postage, DR. FRANCE, Nos. 38 and 40 W. Gay St., Columbus, O.

HE "CANED" ACTOR DONNELLY.

This Was in Return for Saving a Man's Life.

He was tall, slender, well-dressed, with a dudish air and an amiable smile, says the New York World. Walking up to the man at the stage door of the Academy of Music, Jersey City, recently, he said that he had very important business with Henry V. Donnelly, the senior member of the firm of Donnelly & Girard, of "Natural Gas."

"I must see Mr. Donnelly," he said.

"Well now, look here, you," yelled the bartender. "I'll take none of those bluffs. You dudes make me weary with your excuses to get in here."

"Cawnt I get in?"

"Yes, over my dead body," and he gave a great laugh as the young fellow looked at the huge figure before him.

"What's all this about?" inquired the stage manager.

"I'm dweadfully anxious to see Mr. Donnelly," said the tall stranger. "To tell the truth," he saved my life, and I want to thank him."

Then he was permitted to pass the man at the outer door and was ushered into Mr. Donnelly's room. He walked up to the comedian, held out his hand and after a hearty shake pulled out a gold-headed cane and presented it to the astonished Donnelly.

"I am the man, sir," he went on in a polite, easy way, "whom you pulled out of a window in a half-dazed condition at the Hotel Royal fire. I cawnt give my name, but your bravery saved my life and I want you to remember that I am not ungrateful."

Mr. Donnelly, who was one of the first to get to the fire, explained that he only did what he could to aid those in danger and thought no more of the matter. He took the cane and invited his visitor to have a glass of wine. Whether or not the young man gave his name to the actor was not made known, but it is certain that they became good friends before they parted.

According to a recent estimate of the glass bottle production of the world, the average daily output amounts to about 46,300 gross. Germany, Belgium and Austria-Hungary turn out about 37,000 gross, or about four-fifths of the product of the world. France so small an output as 100 gross. Britain turns out about 6,000 gross daily. Of the other producing countries, Sweden makes the highest with 1,516 gross daily.

BAD SKIN ERUPTION

Many Years—All Manner of Medicines and Doctors Fail—Cured in One Month By Cuticura.

In 1885 I had an eruption come out on my skin, and while at first it did not amount to much, it grew to be very aggravating and at times unbearable. The skin would get hard, inflamed, and peel off, leaving an entire new skin, acting same way for weeks at a time, always worse at nights. Have tried all manner of medicines and had doctors prescribe to no effect. I bought a box of CUTICURA REMEDIES and used CUTICURA RESOLVENT for my blood. I am fully cured, and in less than a month. It was a most aggravating skin disease, and now I am enjoying ease and comfort. I have had untold benefits. Anyone trying CUTICURA REMEDIES cannot help but derive benefit. Anyone writing me will receive an answer and my advice to give your REMEDIES a trial.

Doctor Uses Cuticura.

We have opened a drug store at this place and are having a splendid sale on CUTICURA REMEDIES, which we keep a full stock of. I would not be without your CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP for $500, just for the benefit it did my little boy. When he was six months old, his face was covered with eczema, and CUTICURA REMEDIES cured it. He is now three years old. We still use the CUTICURA SOAP, and wash him occasionally with it, to prevent his skin from getting rough. We have handled your medicines for five years, and never heard a complaint against them, but abundant praise. We sold our drug store in Kansas, and will continue in the drug business here.

Townsend, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, St. Louis.

To make a spool of thread, the very best Sea cotton is used. This is taken in the raw state and torn to pieces by a machine called a breaker. It is freed from its impurities by several other machines, after which it is taken up by a "slipper" and twisted into soft yarn. Several strands of this are twisted into one fine thread; three of these are then twisted together, making the six-cord thread, which, after being bleached, is ready to sell.
